Election reforms force Senate weekend session

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government's debt is $63 billion over the legal limit and the Senate is preparing for its first Sunday session in 112 years — all because of a tangle created by an election reform measure.

Despite the government's technical violation, officials said bonds and other government debts could be paid off over the next few days out of about $4.5 billion in cash on hand.

Some congressional action is likely before any real financial crisis occurs.

The situation results from the Senate's decision earlier in the week to attach a broad measure for public financing of presidential and congressional campaigns to a bill extending and raising the legal debt limit.

The House balked at the provision for congressional elections. A proposed compromise limiting the bill to presidential elections and primaries ran into a filibuster Friday by Sen. James Allen, D-Ala.

Allen blocked action to send the entire package to a Senate-House conference committee.

Even before the current debt ceiling law expired at midnight, both houses had adjourned, the House until Monday and the Senate until today.

Earlier in the day, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield moved to force action, winning approval of sessions today and Sunday, the latter by a vote of 59 to 28.

If the Sunday session comes off, the Senate will vote at 11 a.m. EST on a cloture petition. This would restrict debate and force action on the move to send the package to conference.

Democratic leaders were doubtful they could succeed in the first effort to gain the needed two-thirds cloture vote but planned a second attempt Monday.

The last time the Senate met on a Sunday was on March 3, 1861, on the eve of Abraham Lincoln's inaugural.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., the assistant Democratic leader, said he expects far more than the 51 senators needed to do business. Several senators canceled out-of-town engagements.

The compromise campaign financing plan would extend the existing law to finance the 1976 election out of a fund to be created by having taxpayers earmark $1 of their taxes by checking off a box on their return.

Israel's Ben-Gurion dies at 87

TEL AVIV (AP) —David Ben-Gurion, Israel's founding father and its first premier, died today two weeks after he suffered a paralyzing cerebral hemorrhage. He was 87.

His family and close friends were by his side in the Sheba Medical Center of Tel Hashomer hospital when doctors pronounced him dead at 11 a.m. local time —4 a.m. EST.

He had held the premiership twice and resigned for the last time in 1963. As premier and defense minister, he led Israel through the 1948 war of independence and the 1956 Suez war. He died in the wake of the fourth war between Israel and the Arabs, just as the hostile sides were taking their first tentative steps toward direct negotiations.

Ben-Gurion retired from public life in 1970. Since then, he had been working 15 hours a day on a history of Israel's early years, usually writing at his small, prefabricated cottage at a kibbutz in the Negev desert.

B.G., as Israelis knew him, last appeared in public at Israel's 25th anniversary celebration in May, hunched in the grandstand wearing an Israeli farmer's hat.

Ben-Gurion had been in failing health for more than a year and was hospitalized twice before his final illness.

He suffered a cerebral hemorrhage on Nov. 18 in his Tel Aviv apartment. He rallied at first under around-the-clock medical attention, but his condition began to deteriorate Nov. 23 with a drop in pulse and blood pressure.

During the first week after his stroke, he received numerous high-ranking well-wishers, including Premier Golda Meir.

President Nixon had cabled Ben-Gurion: "Now that peace has arisen, I anticipate the day you will see it materialize with your own eyes."

At the time Ben-Gurion died, his grandson Alon Ben-Gurion was being treated for leg wounds suffered in the October war. He also is survived by two daughters.

Ben-Gurion, who as early as 1907 urged Jews in Palestine to arm themselves against the Arabs, declared an independent Jewish state there 41 years later.

He was the nation's dominant figure during its first 15 years. Ben-Gurion resigned as premier in 1963 and quit the Knesset, or Israeli parliament, seven years later.

His leonine visage beneath twin tufts of white hair —his name is Hebrew for Son of a Lion Cub — became as well known in his day as Charles de Gaulle's profile or Winston Churchill's cigar.

Ben-Gurion retired to a cluttered study at his home in Sde Boqer, a kibbutz in the Negev Desert, and quietly switched from making history to writing it —11 volumes on Israel's early years.

He rarely emerged from the house, in which a large portrait of his late wife and a map of Israel hung over worn furniture and a vase of roses set off an array of awards and mementos. On his desk, a Bible and a bottle of apple juice always stood among the scattered papers.

In an interview on his 86th birthday last year, Ben-Gurion said the Jewish state he declared in 1948 actually began in 1870, when French Jews opened an agricultural school near Tel Aviv "to teach the Jews to work the land and rebuild our country."

But in another sense, he said, the nation will not really exist until there is peace with the Arabs, until Israel's population is tripled and its desert is developed.

"Peace with the Arabs? Once we were at peace, and we worked together.... There will be peace again. I am not certain it will happen in six months or a year, but we will have it.

"The main problem facing Israel today is to bring more Jews to build the country.... We need at least five or six million Jews more. How long will it take? I cannot tell you. I believe it can be done in 10 or 15 years, but I am not certain."

The future statesman was born David Green in Plonsk, Poland, on Oct. 16, 1886. His father, an unlicensed lawyer, turned their home into a center for Zionism.

Ben-Gurion came to Palestine in 1906 to work as a laborer in one of the tiny Jewish settlements cropping up there. Like other European Jews who began a new life in Palestine, he chose a new name from the Bible.

'Plumber' boss pleads guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egil Krogh Jr., who has pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the Ellsberg burglary, says he will tell the Watergate grand jury what he knows about it.

And U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica will begin listening to the White House Watergate tapes Monday in preparation for sending them to the grand jurors.

Meanwhile, the White House said special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt remains in charge of the Watergate case for President Nixon, although changes are being made in the legal staff.

Krogh, 34, is the former boss of the White House "plumbers" unit which authorities say burglarized the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist two years ago.

He pleaded guilty Friday to a single count of conspiring to violate the civil rights of the psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding. The maximum penalty would be 10 years in jail and a $10,000 fine. U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell said he would pass sentence in six or seven weeks.

In return for the plea, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski agreed to drop two earlier federal charges of lying to the grand jury. Krogh agreed to cooperate with Jaworski and to give "full and truthful disclosure of all relevant information and documents in his possession."

He asked to be excused from testifying until after he has been sentenced, to avoid the impression he was seeking to get off lightly. Jaworski agreed to this.

In Los Angeles, Dist. Atty. Joseph P. Busch said he plans to call Krogh as a witness in the burglary and conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman, former White House domestic adviser, and plumbers E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy. The trial is set for Dec. 19.

In another development related to charges of scandal in the Nixon administration, Chicago architect Lester B. Knight said he secretly contributed $50,000 to the President's 1972 campaign after his firm received a $911,250 contract. But he said the two "have no connection whatsoever."

The contract, awarded by the General Services Administration, was for architectural engineering services on the Social Security Administration Payment Center in Chicago.

Ford will take oath Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) —Gerald R. Ford will be sworn in as vice president at a joint meeting of the House and Senate next Thursday afternoon.

That was the word Friday from House Speaker Carl Albert, although the House will not vote until Thursday on his confirmation. Ford has been confirmed by the Senate.

Asked at a news conference if his announcement indicated he was sure Ford would be confirmed, Albert replied:

"I wish I was as sure of everything as I am of that."

Nixon financial data prepared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soon-to-be-released data on President Nixon's personal finances will disclose he has periodically purchased certificates of deposit in a bank headed by friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, sources report.

One White House official, in confirming the presidential purchases, said "there is nothing unusual about it."

The President "placed dollars into certificates of deposit" after sale of property "so that he did not have an excessively large checking account," the official said. "It's just like a savings account."

Offered by most banks, certificates of deposit pay a slightly higher interest rate than savings accounts, but the purchaser must agree to keep a certain amount of money —usually multiples of $5,000 or more—on deposit for a specified period

One source said Nixon purchased a six-month, $100,000 certificate of deposit from Rebozo's Key Biscayne, Fla., bank on Sept. 9, 1969, has renewed it periodically and still holds it.

This disclosure came within hours after a bank vice president, Thomas Wakefield, confirmed such a Nixon purchase without giving a specific date. Both Wakefield and the White House official denied there was a link between Nixon's purchase and $100,000 given Rebozo by industrialist Howard Hughes.

Rebozo, who described the money as a campaign contribution, has said he kept it in a safe deposit box for three years before returning it earlier this year. Documents in a Hughes legal proceeding indicate that Rebozo received the $100,000 in two installments —the first in late 1969 and the second in 1970.

The September 1969 date cited by the sources was within five months after Nixon sold his New York City apartment for a $62,140 profit and his interest in a Rebozo-headed real estate corporation for a $185,891 profit

It also was two months after Nixon purchased his San Clemente, Calif., estate, on which, reportedly, he made a $100,000 down payment. His two Key Biscayne homes had been purchased earlier —in December 1968.

Data on Nixon's finances is being collected by White House aides as part of the President's "Operation Candor" intended to refute allegations spawned by the Watergate controversy.

At a news briefing Friday, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said a series of statements scheduled for release beginning next week will show that Nixon has not used political funds for personal purposes.

"The information you will get will show the money he has, he has derived through his work as an attorney and through real estate," Warren said.

Warren would not directly confirm presidential purchase of the $100,000 certificate of deposit, but he noted that previous presidential financial statements disclosed that Nixon had cash in bank deposits.

Meanwhile in Miami, Dade County State Atty. Richard Gerstein filed a petition in state circuit court Friday to force the Key Biscayne Bank to turn over Nixon's financial records.

Gerstein took the action after the bank declined to honor his subpoena for the records, contending they were covered by executive privilege.

A hearing on Gerstein's disclosure motion was set for next Wednesday before Circuit Court Judge Paul Baker.

Agnew evasion plea misstated

WASHINGTON (AP) —The Associated Press reported erroneously Wednesday that former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew had pleaded guilty Oct. 10 to one count of income-tax evasion.

Actually, Agnew resigned as vice president after pleading nolo contendre —no contest —to one count of income-tax evasion.

The error was made in a story on Senate approval of Rep. Gerald R. Ford's nomination to succeed Agnew as vice president

Harriman discharged after hospital stay

NEW YORK (AP) —Former diplomat W. Averell Harriman has been discharged from a hospital here after being confined three days for an undisclosed reason.

Harriman, 82, veteran statesman and former Democratic governor of New York, had been hospitalized at the Harkness Pavilion of Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

Harriman was governor from 1955 through 1958. He was wartime ambassador to the Soviet Union and negotiator of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Second policeman brother killed in holdup

BOSTON (AP) — Three Schroeder brothers were Boston policemen. Now two of them are dead —killed by gunmen in separate holdups.

Three years ago, Patrolman Walter Schroeder was shot to death during a bank robbery.

On Friday, Det. John D. Schroeder was in the Suffolk Loan Office when three men announced a holdup. Schroeder identified himself as a policeman, and he was shot fatally in the head.

Now only Francis Schroeder, a deputy superintendent, remains on the force.

Three persons were charged with murder in the latest Schroeder killing, and police said they were seeking two others for questioning.

Hours after the shooting at the loan office, police arrested and charged Wilbert Anderson, 19, and two brothers, Arnold Walker, 18, and Terrel Walker, 17, all of Boston, with murder. Police said they were seeking two other persons for questioning.

John Schroeder, a police officer for 22 years and winner of a department medal of honor last year, was in the loan office Friday to investigate the background of a police recruit.

Officers said he was standing at the rear of the office, dressed in plain clothes and partly hidden from the robbers by some boxes when they announced the holdup.

Police Supt. Jeremiah P. Sullivan said he did not know if Schroeder had drawn his gun when he stepped into view but said the weapon was not fired.

At the time, there were five customers in the office and four or five employes behind glass windows, police said.

After the shooting, the gunmen robbed the office. They took trays of rings, checks and cash which the loan company said amounted to $25,000 to $30,000. One of the men also took Schroeder's gun.

Ex-POW pilot not bitter at layoff by airline

UPPER SADDLE RIVER, N.J. (AP) — As a prisoner of war in Vietnam, Dennis Chambers spent 5½ years in the Hanoi Hilton. As a victim of the energy crisis, he is destined for the ranks of the American unemployed.

Chambers, a former Air Force captain who flew jet fighter sorties from Cam Ranh Bay, is one of 300 pilots to be laid off by Eastern Airline on Jan. 31.

But he says he's not bitter about it.

"Like the guy said on TV last night, under any circumstances, last Christmas was worse than this Christmas could ever be," Chambers said after the Eastern layoffs were announced Friday.

"A lot happened in those five years people just don't seem to understand. We've got it pretty good in this country."

Chambers, who has flown shuttle flights as a pilot-trainee for Eastern since August, admitted he was disappointed, but not with the airline.

"They (Eastern) gave me the chance no one else would. Most of the other airlines wanted someone with more air time. Besides, I'm 32 and the average age is 28," he said.

Although he agreed there are some pilots who may resent the lay-off, Chambers said he is sure that most of the former POWs who were laid off share his sentiments.

"I've already done what I always wanted to do, fly for an airline. I never thought I'd be able to do, and I'm going to enjoy it while it lasts," he said.

"But my wife, well she's not taking it as smooth as I am. She just got this job teaching, and she hates to leave —it took her so much paper work to get the job. But she's with me."

Native Californians, Dennis and Joanne Chambers plan to return to Los Angeles in February and look for jobs, Joanne as a teacher and Dennis as a pilot in the Air Force Reserve. Chambers said that, if he can't get into the reserve, he still likes the Air Force and might try a military career. He and his wife have no children.

If he still can't find a position, Chambers said, "I'll dig ditches. I've been through a lot worse."

Mrs. Chambers said she and her husband have tried to do their part during the current energy crunch, including turning down the thermostat in their rented home.

"We hop on our bicycles whenever we have errands to do," she added. "We do what we can to conserve energy."

Bucks blast Boston '5'

BOSTON (AP) —What may well have been a preview of the National Basketball Association's championship series next spring was a nearly perfect matchup Friday night.

For three quarters, that is.

The Milwaukee Bucks, whose chief problem lately has been blowing substantial second half leads, carried only a 78-73 margin into the final period. But then they exploded for 39 points in the last 12 minutes and the Boston Celtics' 12-game winning streak was history, 117-93.

"We started getting rebounds and just blew them out of there," exulted Coach Larry Costello, whose Bucks extended their own winning streak to six games and in the process assumed the best record in the league at 21-4. Boston slipped to 16-4.

The Bucks outscored the Celtics 23-8 in the first six minutes of the last quarter to put the game out of reach and avenge a defeat in Boston two weeks ago. That defeat had snapped a 13-game Milwaukee winning streak, longest in the NBA this season.

Bucks' forward Bob Dandridge led all scorers with 27 points, 15 of them in the final period, while Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added 24 points, 14 rebounds and several slick passes to an open Dandridge.

Oscar Robertson, playing perhaps his final season, added 20 points and 10 assists while sitting down for only three minutes of the hard running contest.

Robertson's extra work was necessitated by an ankle injury which sidelined regular guard Lucius Allen after the game's first two minutes.

"It was a lot of minutes for me tonight, but it gets you in shape," Robertson said. "A tough game. But when we cut (Paul) Silas off and got the boards, we got running. (Dave) Cowens had to go back outside, too, and they weren't shooting that well."

Reserves Jon McGlocklin and Ron Williams shared Allen's duties and held Boston star JoJo White to eight points, compared with his season average of 20.7.

Cowens led the Celtics with 22 points but teammate John Havlicek, averaging 22.6, sank only six of 20 shots for 14 points.

Havlicek played several minutes at guard after having failed to hold down Dandridge at forward.

"It seems whoever goes on a spurt and gets over the hump, it's over," Havlicek said. "They can't fall behind a team like us and catch up. And we can't fall behind them like that and play catch up."

The Bucks were outrebounded 52-50, but sank 52 of 99 shots for a .525 percentage to the Celtics' 39 of 106 for .368.

The Bucks, who retained their 2½ game hold on first place in their division, will be idle until they host Houston Tuesday night.

St. Mary quint bows

GREEN BAY — A 21-point fourth quarter enabled Green Bay Premontre to score a 55-49 Fox Valley Christian Conference basketball victory over St. Mary Central here Friday night.

The win was the first in three FVCC games for the Cadets. St. Mary's league mark slipped to 1-2.

Premontre, after leading 14-12 at the end of the first segment, was limited to nine second quarter points and the Zephyrs, by scoring 12 points, took a 24-23 margin into the locker room.

The two teams continued their fast pace in the third stanza but neither team was able to put the ball in the basket. St. Mary netted 13 points and Premontre 11 in the quarter and the Zephyrs had a 37-34 lead going into the fourth period.

St. Mary's Joe Kisorek and Premontre's Mike Van Lanen each scored 18 points for scoring honors.

Rick Peot of Premontre scored 17 points and Chris Fahrbach of St. Mary netted 14 points for the only other double figure scoring.

Terrors win over Bluejays

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent sports editor

Appleton West's basketball team survived 32 turnovers to hand Menasha a 58-49 defeat in a spirited but sloppily played Fox Valley Association game Friday night in Seims Gym.

After watching his team lead all the way to square both its FVA record (1-1) and its overall standard (2-2), Coach Dick Emanuel said, "Being an inexperienced team, we need every win we can get." The Clem Massey coached Bluejays, who turned the ball over 22 times without getting off a shot, dropped to 0-2 in the FVA and to 2-3 overall.

Emanuel attributed part of the turnover-proneness to the aggressive style of ball. "You've got to look at the style of game," noted Emanuel. "With both teams pressing, there'll be more turnovers than in a slow game." Emanuel said the Terrors played good defense and rebounded effectively. (They engineered a 31 to 23 board advantage).

Held to a 19 to 19 standoff in baskets, the Terrors forged the victory from the free throw line. They sank their first nine attempts and their final 10 in achieving 20-for-23 success. The Jays came back with only 11 one-pointers (out of 18 tries).

Mike Brouillard, working effectively under the boards for West, paced all scorers with 17 points and all rebounders, with 10. Arnie Fielkow added seven rebounds for AHS-W and produced 12 points, as did teammate Dave Thiel. Thiel was cited by Emanuel for his strong floor play. Tom Emmers was the fourth Terror in double figures, scoring 10 points.

The Jays likewise exhibited good scoring balance. Ron Bodmer fired in 10 points in a strong fourth-period performance and finished with his team's high of 14. Rick Bachhuber contributed nine points, while Don Keddell and Brad Kellett came up with eight apiece.

The only retaliation Menasha could offer to West's 12 points in the first 5:04 of the game was Bodmer's baseline drive. Fielkow and Emmers each tossed in four of the Terrors' first dozen points. West was on top, 16-8, after one period.

Keddell, Kellett and Bachhuber each hit from the field early in the second quarter and the Jays cut their deficit to two points. West threw the ball away several times in the face of Menasha pressure, and the Jays drew within one (17-16) with 3:30 left before halftime. In the next 6 minutes of playing time (portions of the second and third periods), the Terrors played their best ball of the game and tacked an additional 10 points onto their lead. Emmers' score off a steal started the surge, and Brouillard's lay-up after a pinpoint pass from Thiel raised the count to 21-16. At the end of the half, the margin stood at 24-18.

Featuring sharp passing and 5-for-6 shooting, West went up by 11 (34-23) in the first 3 minutes of the second half. The only Jay replies to a pair of goals apiece by Thiel and Brouillard and one by Fielkow were Kellett's 3-point play and a tip-in. Thereafter Menasha was held at arm's length except for a 6-point flurry that reduced the hosts' lead to five points at one juncture. West took an 8-point lead (40-32) into the final period.

The Jays created 17 more field goal opportunities (60 to 43) for themselves than did West but found the mark only 31.7 per cent of the time. West's shooting rate was 44.2 per cent. Both teams switched defenses extensively, accounting for some of the ball handling difficulties.

Indians edge Kaukauna, 81-77

OSHKOSH —Two free throws apiece for Steve Dittmer and Larry Tesch in the final seconds of the fourth quarter opened the gap for the Oshkosh West Indians to pull through for an 81-77 FVA victory over Kaukauna here Friday night.

Kaukauna outscored the Indians 22-12 in the first quarter, but Steve and Bruce Dittmer each scored nine points in the second quarter to lead the Indians.

In the third quarter, Oshkosh was ahead by 12 points, but when the fourth period came around it found Kaukauna ahead 67-65. Reed Giordana hit the tying shot and Bill Newhouse gave the go-ahead on a pair of free throws. The Dittmers sent Oshkosh ahead again, and with 3:04 remaining in the game, Giordana fouled out. The score at this point was 74-71, in favor of the Indians. But it didn't discourage the Ghosts, who, with 44 seconds left caught up to within one 77-76, but Dittmer and Tesch sank their winning free throws.

Bruce Dittmer led the Indians with 26 points, Steve Dittmer with 20, Bill Dehn with 14, and Larry Tesch with 10.

For the Ghosts it was Reed Giordana with 17, Tom Vaubel with 15, Todd Luedtke with 12, and Bill Newhouse with 10.

Oshkosh is now 2-0 in the FVA, while Kaukauna evened up its record with a 1-1 mark.

Neenah spurts past Patriots

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent staff writer

NEENAH — Neenah's Rockets committed 25 turnovers and still won a ball game by 14 points here Friday night.

One of the reasons was that Appleton East was guilty of 27 miscues and was outrebounded and "outquicked" as well in dropping a 67-53 Fox Valley Association decision to the unbeaten (4-0) Twin Citians.

The numerous giveaways didn't concern Coach Ron Einerson too greatly. He noted that in the Rockets' running style of play they are bound to kick the ball away once in a while and he expects the opposition to make more mistakes, thus his team will come out better in the long run.

"We did a nice job on Callaway (Paul) and did a good job in keeping the ball away from him," Einerson said, adding "We boarded well but still make some mental lapses."

The 6-7 Callaway was limited to five points, all in the first half. He only took three second half shots and they all came in the third quarter.

Neenah's quickness produced a couple of steals, which were converted into easy baskets, and the offensive rebounding directly resulted in five buckets—three by Ken Zoromski and Wayne Kreklow's two.

The statistics show the Rockets controlling 46 retrieves to 27 for the Pats.

"They killed us on the boards and we gave them too many easy ones off the press," was East Coach Tom Gossens' summation.

"Our guards shot well, I thought," East's coach said. He explained that his team hustled but Neenah reacted a little better to the ball.

The Patriots fell victim to a weird situation at the start of the final period. The teams were facing the wrong way on the jump, which East controlled. It moved toward Neenah's basket before the error was noted and, then after heading for their own hoop, they were whistled out of the ball after crossing the center line.

The Rockets received an outstanding effort from Kreklow, junior guard, who poured in 25 points, 12 on field goals. He was accurate on a high arching toss from the side.

Tom Spice was runnerup with 14 points and Tom Volkmann, starting in place of Ben Luebke, who had knee surgery this week, added nine.

Jeff West was East's best with 13 points. Phil Plamann contributed nine and Craig Martin and Ray Schreiter tossed in eight apiece. Martin was held out of action until the third period. Plamann didn't start either.

Spurts, typical of the teams coached by Einerson in the past, again had a big role in the victory.

With a 13-12 lead in the second quarter, the hosts made five straight points. Later while owning a 22-18 advantage, they connected for six in a row, enroute to a 28-21 halftime edge.

Kreklow connected on a jump shot to open second half scoring and he converted on a steal on East's throw-in for an 11-point bulge.

Later in the third stanza with the score 37-29, the Rockets struck for eight straight points for a 45-29 score. East narrows it to 45-34 at the period's conclusion.

The Patriots made good on their first four field goals of the last quarter and were eight of 12 overall but couldn't put much of a dent in Neenah's cushion.

Unbeaten Papermakers whip Oshkosh North '5'

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent staff writer

KIMBERLY — Using a high-pressure defense and shooting better than 50 per cent from the field, the Kimberly Papermakers handed Oshkosh North an 82-58 Fox Valley Association basketball setback here Friday night.

The win was the third straight in the league for the unbeaten Papermakers who are 4-0 for the season.

The Spartans are winless in three FVA starts and have a 1-3 mark overall.

Kimberly shot a blistering 54 per cent on field goals with 33 out of 61 shots. An indication of what was to come was evident in the first period when Coach Jack Wippich's cagers hit on 10 of 16 from the field while building a 22-14 lead after the first eight minutes of action.

The Spartans were not all bad in the shooting department with 48 per cent on 23 baskets, but North was limited to just 47 shots in the game.

Chuck Ruys of the Papermakers and Collin Strasser of North led the scoring for the night. Ruys was high for both teams with 23 and Strasser was right behind with 22. Ruys had 17 markers in the first half while Strasser had 16. Ruys saw only limited action in the last two periods when Papermaker reserves saw duty.

After Strasser's hot shooting from long range in the first two periods, the Papermakers went to work and bottled him up for just two field goals in the last two stanzas.

For the first few minutes of the game, the lead see-sawed and was tied at 10-10 when the Papermakers dumped in 10 straight markers for a 20-10 advantage. Even though the Spartans fought back and reduced that margin as low as six points in the second quarter, the outcome was not in doubt.

With Ruys leading the way, Kimberly controlled both boards and the North guards had a tough time bringing the ball upcourt against the Kimberly press. On numerous occasions Bill Reed, Steve Uelmen or Dave Albers was intercepting an Oshkosh pass to set up easy Kimberly scores.

Kimberly had 10 players in the scoring column and Albers had 12 while Kim Vanden Boogaard had 14 to go with the 23 by Ruys.

Besides Strasser, the only other Spartan to reach the double figures was Bill Hickey with 10.

Gordon, MacLeod will miss Sunday's game

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) —Coach Dan Devine said Friday receiver Dick Gordon and linebacker Tom MacLeod will miss the Green Bay Packers' National Football League game against New Orleans at Milwaukee Sunday.

The availability of seven or eight others may not be determined until Sunday morning, Devine said. MacLeod, who has a sprained knee, will be replaced a second successive week by Tom Toner.

Loss of Gordon, who suffered a dislocated shoulder at San Francisco Monday night, severely strains the receiver corps. Two other receivers, Leland Glass and Jon Staggers, are expected to play but Devine said they will not be at full speed.

"We worked a lot more than I would like to in a short week, but the New Orleans sefense is different from San Francisco's so we had to put in the time on the practice field," Devine said. "In fact, the Saints' defense is different from anything we've faced all year."

Devine noted New Orleans led powerful Los Angeles until well into the second half last weekend.

"Los Angeles has the best offense in the NFC this year and it struggled to have success against the Saints," he said.

The Saints' defense ranks last in the National Conference against the rush and third from the bottom against the pass. However, it has measurably improved since New Orleans lost its first two games of the season, 62-7 to Atlanta and 40-3 against Dallas.

The Saints announced free safety Tom Myers, deactivated last week because of a knee injury, will return to the lineup and that Joe Profit will start at running back ahead of Bill Butler.

The Saints also announced activation of offensive tackle Paul Fersen and defensive end Andy Dorris.

Butler, who injured a knee in practice Thursday, will be deactivated along with safety Jerry Moore and offensive tackle Craig Robinson.

Carroll routs Lawrence

WAUKESHA — Carroll College pulled away late in the first half and poured it on in the second for a 101-64 non conference basketball win over Lawrence here Friday night. It was the season opener for both teams.

Lawrence held the lead through most of the first half before the hosts took a 34-32 advantage. Carroll then broke from a 36-34 lead to a 50-36 margin at halftime.

The Vikes were able to come within nine points (54-45) with 17 minutes left in the game but Carroll refused to fold.

Joe Bussel led the winners with his game-high 20 points in the first half. Scott Ward and Dave Shaw scored 19 and 17 points, respectively, in the second half for Carroll.

Lawrence was led by Jerry Percak's 17 points. Tim Kelley, former Appleton East star, netted 15 points for LU. Quincy Rogers added 12 points for the Vikes.

UW hockey team tied, 6-6

BY GENE LILLGE
Post-Crescent staff writer

MADISON — Wisconsin's nationally top-ranked hockey team suffered one of its longest scoring droughts of the season Friday night and were tied by an opportunistic Michigan State Spartan squad 6-6.

The Badgers, now 9-2-1 overall and 6-2-1 in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, tallied twice in the opening 20 minutes and four times in the second period but were shutout in the third canto and in the 10 minute overtime despite numerous opportunities.

Michigan State's John Sturges scored his second goal of the night with 13:16 left in the third period to tie the score at 6-all.

Don De Prez opened the game's scoring for Wisconsin when he beat freshman goalie Gary Carr 30 seconds into the game. Gary Winchester got the first of his two goals for the evening with 12:41 left in the period to give the Badgers a 2-0 lead.

Goals by Sturgis and Steve Colp evened the contest at the end of the first period.

The teams combined for seven goals in the second period, with the Badgers taking a 6-5 lead.

MSU's Greg Ciungan put the Spartans ahead with a goal 52 seconds into the second period. Winchester countered with a beautiful goal at the 16:27 mark to again knot the score. After Colp put Michigan State ahead with 12:40 left, Wisconsin's Dean Talafous poked a pair of goals through and the Badgers led 5-4 with 7:09 left in the period.

Brendon Moroney picked up a poor Wisconsin pass in front of goalie Dick Perkins and put the Spartans even again with 1:02 left in the period, but Dave Arundel's goal with just 29 seconds remaining gave the Badgers a 6-5 margin.

The capacity crowd of 8,431 cheered throughout the first period and the overtime segment as the Badgers put 21 shots on goal only to have them bounce or roll just wide or short.

Perkins ended the game with 29 saves while Carr kicked back 49 Badgers shots. The two teams complete their series tonight.

FVL beaten by Lourdes, 62-48

BY DAVE VOLKMAN

A fourth quarter spurt by Oshkosh Lourdes put down a third quarter rally by Fox Valley Lutheran and propelled the Knights to a 62-48 win over the Foxes in a Fox Valley Christian Conference encounter here Friday night.

Behind by ten at the half, the Foxes chipped away at the Knights' lead, finally reducing it to four at 35-31 on a Jeff Young baseline jumper. The two teams exchanged baskets until the end of the quarter, when the score stood at 41-37.

The Foxes, already handicapped by the loss of senior forward Tom Grow for a second straight game, were dealt another blow when center John Schultz re-injured a sprained ankle while picking up his third foul midway through the opening segment. Schultz sat out the rest of the first half, but returned to spark the Foxes in the third quarter.

FVL took their only lead, 2-0 as Young scored off of the opening tip off.

Lourdes came back to make the score 7-2, as the Foxes couldn't get on the board for another three minutes.

A pair of baskets by Young and one by Tom Hanke offset a hat trick by the Knights' Ken Korsch to keep FVL close (17-10) by the end of the opening segment.

Although the the Knights' big final period was instrumental in their win, it was Korsch who proved to be the thorn in the side of FVL. The 6-3 pivot man seemed unstoppable; hitting long-range shots and helping his team to a 32-26 rebounding advantage. Korsch finished the night with 21 points, hitting nine shots from the field—most of them "bango" jumpers.

The Foxes kept their distance in the second quarter, as fouls, turnovers and missed free throws prevented them from cutting their deficit.

In the 8:00 final period, Jim Baerwald got Lourdes going again with only his second field goal of the game to open the period.

After Hanke came back with a shot from the corner, the Knights all but put the game out of reach, as Jim Angle connected for a three - point play, and Jim Runke and Korsch each put in a pair of baskets to make the score 54-39.

FVL finally got on the board again at the 4:45 mark when Terry Streufert got the lid off the hoop.

The remainder of the Knights' points were served up on a silver platter, as FVL, scrambling for the ball to get back into the game, fouled Lourdes consistantly in the last half of the period.

Once again, FVL lead their opponents in turnovers, 18-13, and also lost out in the floor shooting category, 22 of 53 (41 per cent) to 21 of 60 (35 per cent.

Besides Korsch, Lourdes (2-0) was led by Runke with 13, and Baerwald with 10. FVL (0-3), with no one in double figures, was led by Young and Streufert with 9 apiece. Hanke and Schultz each pitched in 8.

Ripon topples Bulldogs in ECC, Winneconne takes over lead

Converting 56 per cent of its shots from the floor Ripon raced to a 65-49 East Central Conference victory over New London Friday night.

In other league matchups Winneconne stopped Omro 74-56 and Waupaca edged Berlin 60-58.

Ripon took a 14-12 first quarter lead and expanded it to a 15 point (35-20) margin at the half.

Joel Floros led the way for the winners with 17 points while Steve Hub and Dave Adams each added 10. Jay Mielke and Dennis Peterson notched 14 and 12 respectively for the Bull Dogs.

Ripon, hitting on 31 of 56 attempts for its 56 percentage, raised its conference mark to 1- with the win and its overall record to 3-2. New London, successful on 21 of 47 shots for 45 per cent, also evened its loop mark at 1-1 and dropped its season log to 2-3.

Dave Reinders, Jim Fawley and Jim Fahley combined for 66 of Winneconne's 74 points as the Wolves moved into sole possession of the league lead with their 2-0 record.

The powerful front line of Winneconne (Reinders at center and Fawley and Fahley at forward) clearly dominated the play. Fawley took game scoring honors with 26 points on 13 field goals while Reinders netted 24 and Fahley 16. Bob Taylor was the high man for the Foxes with 14 points while Dan Lenz and Larry Peck added 10 apiece.

Connecting on 32 of 67 shots from the floor (48 per cent) the Wolves won the rebound battle 45-36 while the Foxes were successful on 20 of 65 tries (31 per cent). The loss dropped Omro to 0-2 in league action and 1-3 overall.

Despite having three players foul out in the final minutes Waupaca had enough down the stretch to pull its victory over Berlin.

Ed Finger and Kelly Taylor carried the brunt of the offensive load for the Comets in the contest. Finger netted 16 of his 22 points in the first half as the hosts structured a 28-25 lead. Taylor picked up the slack in the second half as he tallied 12 of his 15 point accumulation.

Berlin rallied in the final stanza but could only draw within two points.

The game, first for both teams in league competition, upped Waupaca's overall mark 2-1 while the Comets dipped to 0-3 on the season.

Chargers lead CWC as Bears deal Wautoma first setback

Wittenberg-Birnamwood forged into sole possession of first place in the Central Wisconsin Conference Friday by defeating Weyauwega 75-37, while Bonduel was handing Wautoma its initial loss 58-47.

In other CWC games: Little Chute beat Shiocton 66-41 and Marion defeated Manawa 54-49. W-B is 3-0, while Little Chute, Wautoma and Bonduel are 2-1.

Bonduel raced to a 22-8 first period lead against Wautoma but the Hornets battled back to pull within six early in the third period before the Bears pulled ahead again.

Leading Bonduel was 5-11 guard Mark Bartz who connected on 10 of 16 shots in scoring a game high 27 points. Todd Grunewald added 10 for the Bears.

Rick Hasselquist paced Wautoma with 20 points. Bonduel hit on 21 of 60 shots while Wautoma converted 19 of 47.

Weyauwega committed 39 personal fouls and gave the defending CWC champion Chargers too many opportunities from the free throw lane.

The outcome could have been worse but W-B converted only 29 of 56 attempts from the foul stripe.

Jim Schmidt paced the Chargers with 27 points and Peter Krull added 19 —11 from the foul line. Schmidt also handed out eight assists and hauled in 11 rebounds.

Wittenberg-Birnamwood shot 45 per cent on 23 of 51 and Weyauwega only 31 per cent on 15 of 49. The Indians lost five players via personal fouls.

Little Chute's depth too much for Shiocton

BY DAN VANDERPAS
Post-Crescent staff writer

LITTLE CHUTE—Bench strength, a stingy defense and a 16-point performance by Dave Hermsen propelled Little Chute's Mustangs to a 66-41 Central Wisconsin Conference victory over Shiocton's Chiefs here Friday night.

The Mustangs are 2-1 in league play and 4-1 in all games, while the Chiefs' log stands at 0-3 and 0-4.

A total of 12 players saw action for the Chuters. Eleven produced at least one basket.

"It was nice to get a chance to look at a lot of different combinations," Mustang Coach Al Schmidt said. "I saw a lot of fine performers out there tonight and I was especially pleased with our juniors."

The contest was close for the first five minutes. Two baskets by Mike Bricco and a short jumper by Dennis Van Straten enabled Shiocton to grab a 2-2 lead with 4:14 left in the first quarter.

However, Dan Schreurs garnered three points and Hermsen added a basket as Little Chute tied the score at 7-7 at the 3:02 mark.

From then on, the Mustangs gradually pulled away. Bricco, who displayed an accurate shooting eye from all angles, contributed nine of Shiocton's 12 markers in the second quarter, but the Chiefs trailed, 30-19, at halftime. In the period, Bricco connected for two baskets and added five free throws in six attempts.

Hermsen and Rick Vander Wyst, who like most regulars saw limited action, fired in four points apiece in the third quarter as LC led, 53-29, going into the final eight minutes.

The Chiefs, plagued by the Mustangs' man-for-man defense, had difficulty getting the ball past midcourt on several occasions in the third period. While Little Chute worked for the percentage shot, Shiocton relied mostly on Bricco's outside shooting.

Jim Jens, who had been held without a point during the first three stanzas, hooped nine in the last quarter as SHS outscored Schmidt's charges, 12-11.

Bricco led all scorers with 21 points, including seven baskets and as many free throws.

Hermsen was the only player to hit in double figures for Little Chute. Scott Schommer added eight and Dan Vanden Heuvel swished seven.

Newcombe, Laver win

CLEVELAND (AP) —Stan Smith and Erik van Dillen hold the key that will keep the door open for the United States in the 73rd Davis Cup tennis world finals.

Smith and van Dillen face a yet to be named Australian doubles team today in the third match of tennis' supreme test in Cleveland's 50-year-old, high-ceiling Public Hall. The winner will be decided in the best-of-five match series.

Aussies John Newcombe and Rod Laver defeated the U.S.'s Stan Smith and Tom Gorman in the first two single matches in marathon tennis bouts Friday.

Newcombe heavy served and backhanded his way to a 6-1, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 match win over blonde-haired Smith in the first match.

Laver, faltering in his first sets, settled down and overcame the much younger Gorman, 8-10, 8-6, 6-8, 6-3, 6-1.

Speculation was strong that the Australian's team captain Neale Fraser will chose Newcombe and Ken Rosewall to go against the U.S.

Fraser had until one hour before the match to name his doubles team.

Newcombe was asked after his three-hour hard-fought victory if he would be rested enough to have a go at the doubles today.

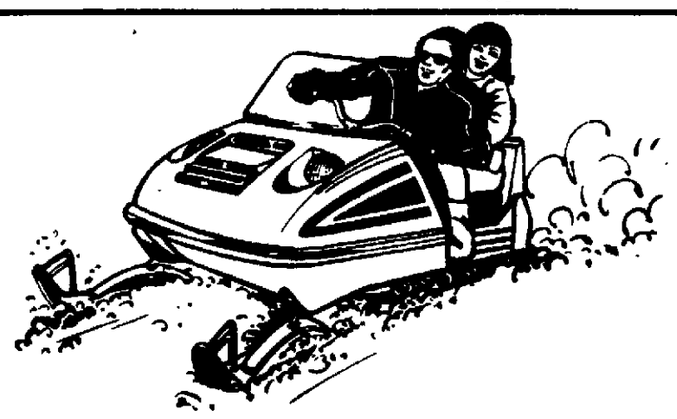

"I'm worn out now," the 29-year-old mustachioed Australian said. "I sure don't feel like I just got out of bed, but I feel like I'll be ready Saturday."

Newcombe said he played the best set of tennis in his career in his opening set victory over Smith.

"There weren't too many points during the entire match that were unforced," Newcombe said. "You had to work for every point."

Voice Vote. Motion Carried and the Chair declared the minutes of the meetings approved as published.
BUSINESS PRESENTED BY THE MAYOR
I have just this second noticed that we have one of our former mayors, Clarence Mitchell, with us. Mitch, it is nice to have you with us.
I have two items under Mayor's Business. The first has to do with the presentation on behalf of the Park and Recreation Commission of their appointment of Mr. Floyd Roberts to head the Parks Department. The motion which I think would be in order would be as follows: That the appointment by the Appleton Parks and Recreation Commission of Mr. Floyd Roberts as Supervisor of Parks be confirmed and that Mr. Roberts be paid the recommended annual salary of $15,200.00 per year through 1974.
Alderman Kaufman moved, seconded by Alderman Strutz, that the Common Council confirm the appointment of Mr. Floyd Roberts, to fill the vacated position of Supervisor of Parks at the salary of $15,200.00 per year through 1974.
Discussion was held on the salary.
ROLL CALL: Aldermen Beckley, Day, Errington, Kalata, Kamps, Kaufman, Maloney, Mittlestadt, Polzin, Rehfeldt, Safford, Schreiter, Schwaller, Strutz, Stutzman, West, Wieckert - Aye - 17. Aldermen Pointe., Thompson - Nay - 2. Excused: Alderman Winzenz - 1. APPOINTMENT WAS CONFIRMED.
I would like to discuss with the Council a matter relating to the membership of the Appleton Redevelopment Authority. It is a particularly appropriate time to do this because as you know, the original appointments made last fall were on a staggered basis, with two of those seven appointments expiring at this time.
The subject I would specifically like to discuss relates to Alderman Pointer's service on the Redevelopment Authority. You may recall that he was appointed for four years as an ex-officio member of the Common Council, so his term is scheduled to expire in 1976.
Mr. Pointer recently changed jobs with his company so that after what I believe is 26 years in his former type of occupation he is no longer a member of labor. Would you please keep this in mind as I read the following section of the State Statutes which pertains to the makeup of redevelopment authorities. There are a number of significant points covered.
"In making appointments of commissioners, the appointing power shall give due consideration to the general interest of the appointee in a redevelopment, slum clearance or urban renewal program and shall, insofar as is possible, designate representatives from the general public, labor, industry, finance or business group, and civic organizations. Appointees shall have sufficient ability and experience in related fields, especially to assure efficiency in the redevelopment program, its planning and direction. One of such 7 commissioners shall be a member of the local legislative body who shall serve ex officio."
I have discussed this matter with Mr. Geenen who advises that the section calling for representatives from various constituencies is not mandatory.
I should also advise that at the time of his job change, Alderman Pointer did contact me and offered to resign.
The question I would like to pose to the Council is: Do members of the Council wish to continue to look upon Mr. Pointer as representing the constituencies he did at the time of his appointment, or not?
Discussion followed.
Alderman Maloney moved, seconded by Alderman Thompson, that the Common Council arise and report from the recessed session of the Committee of the Whole held November 21, 1973.

(2) The Committee recommends that the only fringe benefit that will be allowed to the Alderman be the parking benefit they now have.

Denmark quint pounds Wrightstown, 71-54

DENMARK — A 30 point scoring performance by Tim Novak paced Denmark to a 71-54 Olympian Conference basketball win over Wrightstown here Friday night.

Novak, who also led the Vikings to a 43-34 edge in rebounding with 18 rebounds, scored 12 baskets and added six free throws to lead all scorers.

Wrightstown, now 0-3 in league play, held a 14-10 lead at the end of the first segment but Denmark, now 1-2 in league action, poured in 22 points in the second stanza.

The Tigers managed only eight points in the third period and Denmark netted 19 points to widen its lead to 51-36 going into the final quarter.

The winners went up by 22 points — their biggest lead segment of the night — early in the fourth

Denmark's Chris Olson and Wrightstown's John Hanaway and Bruce Theunis all scored 17 points apiece.

Appleton will not advertise industry during energy crisis

The Appleton Commerce and Industrial Development Committee has decided not to advertise in a statewide business and industry publication in 1974, in part because of the expected difficulty of attracting new industry to the city during the present energy shortage.

It did not decide against all efforts to attract new plants, however, listening attentively to proposals by Appleton Area Chamber of Commerce Assistant Executive Robert Chase to set up a citizen committee to study possibilities for new industries.

Chase, however, said placing an advertisement in the Milwaukee newspaper's business and industry section would not be as effective as city-directed efforts at locating specific industries that might want to locate in Appleton.

He also questioned the "ability (of industries) to relocate plants in this or any other area" during the energy crisis.

He noted the case of one industry that investigated possibilities for locating in Appleton and Oshkosh but was unable to get adequate supplies of energy (natural gas).

The committee has concluded that a proposal from The Biddle Advertising Co., Appleton, for an advertising program costing about $40,000 a year would be too much to spend.

The proposal — aimed at attracting new industry to the community —would include research, direct mail and telephone contacts with potential industries and advertising in both national and limited circulation publications.

Passing incident brings fine for Brookfield man

A Brookfield man was fined $100 after he was found guilty Friday on two counts of illegal passing, both stemming from the same date and place, only at different times.

Outagamie County Judge R. Thomas Cane assessed fines of $50 for each of the counts against Philip P. Murphy, 56. Murphy, an attorney, pleaded guilty to one charge and then unsuccessfully defended himself in a brief trial before Cane on the second charge.

Murphy was arrested initially while driving northwest on U.S. 45 between Greenville and Hortonville about 9:45 a.m. on May 25. The arrest, near Hillview Road, was made by a state patrolman.

Just after 3:30 p.m., Murphy was arrested by a different state patrolman as the defendant drove southeast on 45, again near Hillview Road. Both officers had been staked out at the same location.

Murphy asked for the trial on the second charge after he questioned the accuracy of the arrest.

Cane granted the defendant a continuance in the case so he could attend a traffic safety school in Milwaukee. Cane told Murphy that successful completion of the course would make him eligible for a $50 reduction in the fine, which he was given a week to pay.

Telephone company seeking changes in facility, service, rates

The Wisconsin Public Service Commission has scheduled a public hearing for 1:30 p.m. Dec. 12 at city hall in Green Bay to investigate applications of the Northeast Telephone Company on facilities, services, rates and mileage.

The firm filed an application for permission to construct additional plant facilities to convert its Krakow, Pulaski, Mill Center and Oneida exchanges to all one-party service.

It also requested authority to continue its present one-party rates and to withdraw all party-line service and rates as well as line mileage charges for graded service in the rural area when such conversion has been completed.

Auto workers idled

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A. O. Smith Corp. said Wednesday layoffs will affect about 550 production workers at its Milwaukee plant and about 125 in Granite City, Ill., beginning Friday.

The 7,000-worker firm said the layoffs stem from production cutbacks by General Motors Corp., its biggest purchaser of auto frames.

An estimated 4,000 workers at GMC's Janesville plant are affected by the cutbacks.

Controlling air pollution

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources said Friday that its proposed plan to regulate air quality standards on all indirect sources of pollution does not differ drastically from similar recommendations offered by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Robert Alder, environment engineer for DNR, told EPA officials at a public hearing here that the only changes the state will make will be to revise pollution standards to make certain more projects are scrutinized.

The hearing Friday, one of several held throughout the Midwest the last week, is the culmination of a series of steps taken by the EPA after efforts to require individual states to prepare their own implementation plans for controlling future pollution from indirect sources failed.

Indirect sources include parking lots and ramps, sports stadiums, airports, highways and roads, shopping centers and recreational centers and amusement parks.

The EPA established federal air quality standards in 1971, but the United States Court of Appeals ruled in January than the plan, and all individual state implementation plans, did not contain provisions insuring that the air quality standards are maintained in the future.

In June, the EPA ordered the states to submit revised plans to comply with new requirements involving indirect sources, but only a handful of the states followed through. So, in October, the EPA announced that it was proposing regulations that would take effect if the state did not adopt its own EPA-approved plan.

Wisconsin is developing its own plan, through the DNR, and will hold public hearings on its recommendations next week. One of the hearings will be at the Brown County Courthouse Annex in Green Bay at 10:30 a.m. Wednesday.

In a statement opening the Friday hearing, EPA's regional air section enforcement division director David A. Kee said that EPA's initial review of the Wisconsin plan "indicates that the state regulation after formal submittal would be approved by the administrator."

Alder said that the chief difference between DNR's plan and the recommendations made by the EPA are in the cut-off points for examining projects. For example, EPA suggests that any parking lot being planned for construction that will include 500 parking spaces should be examined for possible violation of air quality standards. The DNR wants to check every project of 200 spaces.

The EPA recommends that any indirect source inducing 1,000 or more vehicle trips in one hour or 5,000 in eight hours should be checked. The DNR wants to modify those figures to read 300 or more in one hour and 1,600 in eight hours.

"It isn't that we think the regulations should be stricter," Alder warned. "We just want to be able to keep tabs on more projects."

Strongest opposition to the EPA recommendations was voiced by Timothy Terrell, field director for the Wisconsin Automotive Trades Association. Terrell said that such regulations would only force the indirect sources into the urban fringe areas and cause more problems.

"What you're saying is that the road used the most should not be built," Terrell said. "That's the one that should be built."

Terrell was basing his statements on a belief that automobile emission systems in the future will be foolproof and will not represent a problem in air pollution.

UW system closings costly

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Shutdown of any University of Wisconsin system campus would cost the community in which it is located more than $1 million a year, the UW administration said Friday.

The economic losses would "far outweigh any savings to the state," the report said.

The report was ordered by the Legislature as a guideline for possible budgetary cuts and in response to proposals for closing six of the UW's two-year center system campuses and possibly one four year campus.

The report noted the center system campus buildings were built by counties, often with borrowed funds. It said shutdowns would force the counties to continue paying for unused buildings with possible loss of federal subsidies used in construction.

"The closings would particularly result in a substantial raising of the economic barriers to higher education in some low income areas of the state where cost barriers now may be already too high," the UW said.

Students who commute to two year campuses in or near their home communities save the expense of dormitory or private housing living at larger schools, the report said.

It said some counties may have overbuilt center campus facilities with an eye toward meeting future needs. However, it said, development of facilities in the rest of the UW system has "generally lagged behind enrollment growth."

The Legislature had ordered the UW regents to report by Saturday on how campus buildings might be better used and "which campuses shall be closed."

'Increase support for UWFV'

An indication of the lack of visibility of the campus in the community, a call for increased support for the campus and a demand to keep the center "autonomous" from any four-year campus were heard in two hours of testimony Wednesday at a public hearing on the mission of the University of Wisconsin Center-Fox Valley.

The hearing, attended by over 50 people, was one of a series conducted by the regents at campuses throughout the state to determine public opinion of the recently-issued mission statements. Wednesday's testimony was mostly supportive of the campus role and called for increased support of the campus by the regents.

Mrs. Helen McCune, director of student services at the campus, and Veldor Kopitzke, chairman of the campus steering committee, called for the resources to fulfill the outlined mission.

Mrs. McCune noted the changing nature of the campus clientele. She said that in addition to the recent high school graduates beginning a four-year degree program, 30 per cent of the students are 25 years and older and a growing number are able high school students. She said the two-year campus could deliver personalized education with an emphasis on teaching excellence to these students.

Mrs. McCune called for aid from the regents to "watch-dog" the implementation and acceptance of the new associate degree programs throughout the UW system.

Outagamie County Supv. Al Lewandowski, representing the campus board of trustees, praised the center system and condemned talk of re-affiliating the campus with a four-year institution. He commended the campus for meeting individual student's needs and called for an end to the "financial disadvantage" imposed upon students who seek a four-year degree at a state campus, rather than vocational training.

Mayor James Sutherland of Appleton noted a "lack of community awareness of the significant role played by the center, and commended the regents for efforts to maintain and increase significance.

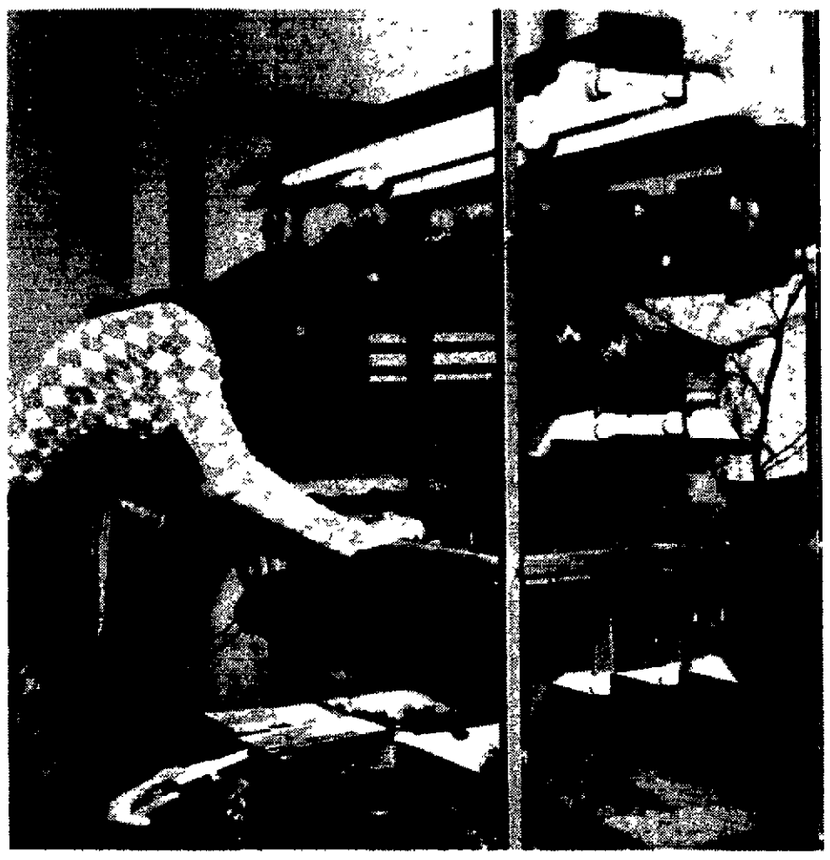

John Torinus, editor of The Post Crescent, said it was important for the campus to "continue as an independent unit of the Center system" so that programs meet the local community needs and students are assured of transferability to any campus.

Sherman Frinak, representing Appleton Papers President John Reeve, called for more clear definition of the names of the centers, their status and differences from technical schools and a simplification of the "academic" wording of the mission statement. He said too few people in the area have an idea of what the Center offers and that terminology and organizational changes have added to identity problems.

Alan Ostendorf, superintendent of the Menasha Public School System, said the campus has provided and should continue to provide sound educational opportunities. He called for increased efforts by faculty and administrators to make the campus more visible in the community and efforts by the UW system to support the campus financially in fulfilling its mission.

The hearing panel, chaired by Regent John Dixon, included Steven Benion, Albert Beaver and Judith Meritt, central administration academic planners. Two other regents were unable to attend.

Oil supply 'worse than expected'

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A survey of Wisconsin heating fuel distributors found the state's fuel oil supplies in December might provide only 71 per cent of the heating fuel used in the state a year earlier, state energy coordinator Stanley York said Friday.

York said consumers who heat with fuel oil would have to reduce their normal thermostat settings by at least 6.5 degrees to make up for the shorter December supplies.

Reports to his office by fuel suppliers show stocks of fuel oil represent about 81 per cent of the amount used by Wisconsin fuel oil consumers in December, 1972, York said. He called the figures "worse than I expected."

He said between three and 10 per cent could be subtracted from the 81 per cent figure to account for fuel oil customers added since last year.

That means Wisconsin's December supplies could dip as low as 71 per cent of the fuel oil sold in the state a year ago.

"It's a problem. Not a disaster yet, but a problem," York said.

In the first of what he said would be monthly briefings on fuel supplies in Wisconsin, York said about 15 of the state's major fuel oil suppliers had reported their supplies and about 12 major companies had not.

Federal law requires that the suppliers make reports of their fuel stocks by the 25th of each month.

Those who have not, York said, have been reported to federal authorities.

Although the 81 per cent figure is based on reports from companies which make up only 30 per cent of last winter's oil sales in Wisconsin, the companies appear to represent a cross-section of all the state suppliers, York said.

Thus the 81 per cent appears to be close to accurate, he said.

York said the companies which submitted reports said their fuel oil supplies range from 101 per cent of last December's sales to about 50 per cent.

He said he has estimated that fuel supplies throughout the winter would average about 25 per cent below the amount which was sold in the state during winter months of 1972.

York said the firms who have not reported supplies represent about 70 per cent of the state's petroleum market. Penalties for not reporting include a maximum $5,000 fine per day if the firms are prosecuted under a criminal violation and up to $2,500 per day if the prosecution is for a civil violation.

Firms delinquent in reporting, he said, are Mobil Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Phillips 66 Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co., Naph-Sol, Northwestern Refining Co., Smith Oil, Triangle, Ashland, Bell, Farm Service and Erickson.

York said if a householder using heating oil "turns down his thermostat 6½ degrees, he's going to make it."

"If he does not, he will use up the oil in his tank and the supplier will bring him one-half or one-fourth of a tank," he said. "By mid-February, there won't be any more heating oil for him."

Expect rate rise for water, sewer

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent staff writer

WAUPACA — While taxpayers in the city are encouraged that the 1974 tax rate, proposed at $23.70 per $1,000 and about the same rate as 1973 with the new assessed valuation at 100 per cent, they will have to anticipate paying higher water and sewer rates next year.

The sewer and water utilities budgets for 1974 call for $176,377 to be spent by the water utility and $120,773 for the sewer utility and these can be self-supporting only if there is an increase in rates during 1974.

The two utilities have not been self-supporting in recent years and deficits are paid by dipping into the city's general fund, which is reflected each year in increased taxes.

"The problem can be solved permanently if we can get a better rate from the big water users and by attracting new big water users into the city," Walter Hein, director of public works, said Friday. "People with fixed incomes cannot take big water and sewer increases, so we have to look to industry to take the brunt of the increase.

"Improvement in the water transmission lines and adequate storage will enable us to provide an adequate water supply," the director added. "We must encourage new industry and make the water utility self-supporting by selling our water at an adequate rate.

"Time is important," he continued. "We have applied to the Public Service Commission for adding a surcharge to our present water rates. Hopefully, this will be granted by the first of the year and we are encouraged that it may be an adequate 15 per cent.

"When the $1.3 million water project is complete in late spring and the bills are paid, we will apply to the Commission for a new permanent, adequate rate. This will be a partial solution to our dilemma."

The water utility budget for 1974, of $176,377, has been trimmed $47,106, most of it a reduction in capital outlay. Operation will cost $73,700, $100 more than in 1973. The utility will pay the city a $30,000 utility tax, $8,000 less than in 1973; debt obligation will be reduced to $56,427, $2,200 less than 1973; and capital outlay will total $16,250, $52,750 under 1973.

Anticipated revenues from users will be approximately the same as the $168,300 collected this year. This, it is hoped, will be augmented by a surcharge the first of the year and an adjustment of water rates by mid-year.

In the first six months of 1974, the water utility will meet emergency capital outlays by using contingent money in the $1.3 million project fund, according to Hein.

"While the water utility is in the hole, it doesn't make sense that it must pay a $30,000 utility tax to the city, but this is set by the Public Service Commission and we can not change it," Hein observed.

The sewer utility will operate on a $120,773 budget in 1974, which allows $79,000 for operations, $13,650 less than budgeted in 1973. Most of this savings is reflected in the efficient operation of the treatment plant, no large anticipated maintenance plans and the use of less chemicals for phosphate removal. Chemical costs were overestimated in the 1973 budget.

The sewer utility is paying $10,973 on its debt service. It owes $54,759 to the general fund and the utility is paying $43,246 on this indebtedness from the Sewage Treatment Plant Investment Account.

City Clerk-Treasurer Harriett Ward warned that if the utility continues to pay off its indebtedness to pay debt obligations, there will be a day of reckoning in the next several years. The city borrowed $650,000 in 1968, most of it for the new treatment plant and water improvement. A balance of $325,000 remains and final payment is due in 1978. "The longer we postpone making principal payments on this balloon account (and payments can now be made at any time) the greater the impact will be," Mrs. Ward said.

The sewer utility has allowed $30,800 for capital outlay, including sewer extension on Matheson Street; $15,000 for engineering plants to extend the sewer to Filter Materials, Wisconsin Bottling, Mill-craft Housing, Inc., and the Foundry; $2,800 for a new truck, and $8,000 for a second comminutor (grinder) in the intake channel at the treatment plant.

The sewer budget does not show anticipated borrowing for the Evans Street sewer project, now nearly completed. The cost is estimated at $38,000, Hein cited, "and it will take five years before the city can recover two-thirds of this amount." The city pledged to property owners on Evans Street that the sewer line would cost them $8 per foot and the city would pay the difference. Cost of the 1,200-foot sewer installation is now estimated at $31.65 per foot.

The $1.3 million water project loan is not shown in the water utility's budget. The $87,000 interest payment on the money, due in 1974, if it is to be paid from revenues next year, would mean a sizeable increase in water rates. For example, if there are 1,500 water users in the city, this would mean a water increase to each of $5 per month.

City could annex five 'town islands'

About 46 acres of land in five "town islands" could soon be annexed to Appleton under the terms of a bill signed into law this week by Gov. Patrick Lucey.

The parcels now belong to three towns — Grand Chute, Buchanan and Harrison. The largest is a tract of just over 20 acres on the southeast side of the city near Appleton High School-East, which is bisected by John Street. There are nearly a dozen homes and over 30 people on that land, according to planning and development director Jack Hetu.

The next largest tract is on the south side of the city on the west side of Kernan Avenue. It is now part of the Town of Harrison, and includes about 16.6 acres and three homes.

Two others —one vacant and the other including five homes — now lie in the town of Town of Grand Chute on the northeast side of the city. One is on the north side of Northland Avenue, between Meade Street and Ballard Avenue, and the other lies along the south side of Glendale Avenue, just east of Ballard.

The Glendale tract is vacant, according to Hetu, while the Northland tract includes five homes.

One other "island," lying just southeast of the larger John Street tract, includes one home and about one-third of an acre.

The exact descriptions of the five tracts had not been drawn up Friday, as City Atty. David Geenen was waiting for official publication of the new law before directing the engineering department to proceed with exact legal descriptions of the land.

Once that is done, the proposed annexations can go to the Welfare and Ordinance Committee and the City Council, where a two-thirds vote will be required for them to be annexed to the city.

Before passage of the new state law, a majority vote of the town citizens also had to give their consent to such annexations.

Assessed valuations of the town properties have not been compiled, although officials don't expect them to be great.

Geenen said action could be concluded on the annexations as early as the second City Council meeting in December, although he expected that it would not be done until the first meeting in January.

CESA 8 approves detachment

KAUKAUNA — With no debate, the Cooperative Educational Service Agency 8 school committee Thursday night issued an order granting the appeal of approximately 200 residents of a portion of the Kaukauna school district to be detached from that district and assigned to the Little Chute district.

The order is to take effect July 1, 1974 and involves an area located east, west and north of the present high school. The area comprises portions of Little Chute and the Town of VandenBroek.

Kaukauna school officials are expected to appeal to the state Department of Public Instruction, which has the power to override the school committee action.

Three years ago, a similar request for detachment from Kaukauna and assignment to Little Chute was approved by the committee, but its action was overturned on the state level. Earlier this year, another petition, involving a larger area than the most recent petition, was circulated and in a referendum those favoring reassignment to Little Chute were defeated by a group favoring the Kaukauna system.

Approximately 80 students are involved in the transfer, but major reason behind both districts desiring the area in question is the Little Chute industrial park which provides a tax base for the district without adding to the student population.

The Kaukauna board of education is expected to approve a petition for reconsideration to the state at its December meeting.

State patrol arrest powers broadened

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A bill broadening arrest powers of the Wisconsin state patrol was signed into law Friday by Gov. Patrick Lucey.

"I am able to sign this bill without hesitation because it increases the effectiveness of the state patrol without altering in any way Wisconsin's commitment to law enforcement by local police departments and county sheriffs' offices," Lucey said.

Lucey said the new law would "enable the state patrol to efficiently respond to calls for assistance from citizens and other law enforcement agencies."

The law enables any state trooper in uniform and on duty to arrest persons he believes are in the process of committing a crime or have committed a crime within 24 hours before the arrest.

The primary mission of the patrol is enforcement of Wisconsin's traffic laws.

Committee recommends pay raise for coroner

By a 3-1 vote, the Outagamie County Board's Judiciary and Enforcement Committee Friday recommended approval of a pay raise sought by Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Kemps, in a letter to the committee, asked for a $32 per diem, the same as recently adopted for county board supervisors. Kemps said it has been traditional for the coroner to get the same per diem as supervisors.

Kemps now gets a flat $22. Supervisors get $22 for a full day's meeting and $15 for a half day. Their raise is effective next April. They will get $18 for half day sessions.

Kemps said that with the raise to $32, he would be willing to also start taking half-day, $18 pay.

The committee passed its recommendation on to the county board, with the stipulation that it not take effect until next April. The only dissenting vote came from Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke of Kaukauna who said he didn't vote himself a pay raise either.

"If it was customary to keep the coroner's pay the same as the county board's in the past, it should be done now," said Supv. Emmett Root of rural Hortonville.

In other committee business:

— Supervisors adopted a resolution of appreciation for Lt. Jack Zuelzke, chief of investigators, who will retire Dec. 31 after 35 years with the sheriff's department.

— Sheriff Calvin L. Spice said that there were three applicants for the lieutenant post being vacated by Zuelzke. All three applicants presently work for the sheriff's department, he said. Tests will be given soon.

— The committee noted that drunk driving arrests by county police have increased significantly over a year ago.

— Spice said that departmental economy measures are resulting in squad car gasoline savings of 50 to 60 gallons a day. The committee noted that squad cars traveled 54,161 miles in October, 6,000 fewer than in October, 1972.

Kasten warns of state $150 million 'fiscal time bomb'

BY DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent staff writer

NEENAH-MENASHA — Political activism from a concerned electorate is the best way to assure an optimistic and positive future for Wisconsin taxpayers, according to State Sen. Robert W. Kasten, R-Brown Deer.

Kasten, attempting to establish himself as a Republican spokesman, Friday urged the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce legislative committee to get involved to make sure that the taxpayer has as much voice in state government as the "tax user or spender."

An active unannounced candidate for the GOP nomination for governor, Kasten pointed to the current state budget as one which represents the tax spending interest.

At 31, Kasten is the youngest man ever to serve on the legislative joint finance and to be named to the compromise committee which established the new biennial budget.

"We started out with three basic goals with the budget, including returning the surplus to the taxpayers: reduce the growth of government, and reduce important kinds of taxation," he said.

The first-term state senator readily admitted that the Republicans have failed in their first goal, and he charged that because a lot of "one-shot" money was spent on salaries and on-going programs which he predicted would lead to a $150 million shortage going into the 1975 budget.

"The extra money came from unused revenue sharing, over-taxation from the 1971 tax increase and unexpected economic growth.

"We wanted to get this money back to the people, but we were not successful and the result is going to be a shortfall in two years which could mean a 15 per cent increase in the personal income tax—if that were the only method used.

"We also tried to get a handle on the growth of government which is now growing at 4.5 times the rate of the state population. But the budget reflects a 44 per cent increase in spending and this compares to an 8 per cent increase in the state's Gross National Product.

"Because there was a surplus, the 44 per cent increase in spending was possible without a tax increase. But just where are we going?" he asked.

"We're sitting on a fiscal time bomb," he said, stressing the crisis which could be facing the legislature in 1975.

However, the Republican-controlled Senate "was able to make some gains" he said. He cited specifics such as dropping sales tax on pollution abatement equipment and phasing out the personal property tax on stocks beginning in 1977.

"Now the governor is talking about the business tax relief. This was not a part of the governor's budget. It became a part only after the conference committee was guaranteed that it would not be vetoed.

"We jammed it down his throat and now he is talking of it as tax relief within the budget. It came from our influence—not his.

"But, he doesn't talk about the state financing welfare," Kasten said, making a reference to Lucey's move to finance all welfare through the state instead of the local level. "At a time when people are getting rich helping the poor, welfare has reached unbelievable levels."

"He's also quiet on the priosons and the erosion of local control and the 6 per cent restrictions on local tax levies," Kasten charged.

Other points by Kasten, included:

— Strong opposition to full-time legislators. "I think it's important to have citizen-legislators to offer a more responsive legislature." He supported legislative reform but nothing which would mean more time. That, he argued, would mean that "legislators are influenced by everyone except their constituents, like in Washington now."

— Predicted the passage of a 55-mile-an-hour speed limit to cope with the energy crisis.

— An optimistic appraisal of the current solid waste disposal legislation he's sponsoring. The proposal, which has already passed the Assembly, will pass the Senate with a "75 per cent majority" he said.

— Support for a new bill which would require legislative review of administrative rules before they go into effect. "Now the only time that review is called is when there's a question," he said, offering that "many times the rules do not reflect the legislative intent."

Committee for airport to be topic

Makeup of a 25-member citizens committee to work with consultants on the Outagamie County Airport master plan will be discussed by the airport committee next Thursday.

Supv. Richard Jahnke, airport committee chairman, said the consultants, Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, have indicated they would like the citizen committee completed by the end of December.

The citizen group, required by the Federal Aviation Administration, would aid the planners in determining the future direction of airport development.

Jahnke also reported to the committee today that the architects are still aiming for an April 1 completion of the new terminal building. But, Jahnke said, "I don't know how they can possibly meet that deadline."

Construction had been held up for more than a month by delays in the delivery of the structural steel.

A rat control program previously available through the Department of Natural Resources has been discontinued, according to Schwalbach.

County seeks corps ok for two breakwaters

OSHKOSH — County Executive Orrin King has applied to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for permits to construct a breakwater at the Osh-O-Nee boat slip in the Town of Vinland, and to extend a breakwater at Boom Bay on Lake Poygan.

In early August, the State Department of Natural Resources granted permits for both projects.

The corps asked citizens having objections to either project or having any other information to file it before Dec. 13.

The Osh-O-Nee site, a favorite with boaters and fishermen, is located about six miles south of Neenah off County Trunk A. Three are parking facilities for about 150 vehicles.

The proposed breakwater would be semi-circular, 167-feet long, and six feet high, with a six-foot flat spot at the top. The pyramid-shaped structure would be constructed of riprap.

The breakwater would extend in a clockwise direction from the shoreline.

According to Al Becher, chairman of the county's parks committee, the purpose of the breakwater is to ease rough water conditions experienced on windy days. Osh-O-Nee has three paved boat slips.

His committee has a $3,000 budget for the job, which earlier he thought could be started in spring, pending the official approvals. Local costs qualify for matching state aid.

At Boom Bay, riprap additions would be made to both ends of the breakwater. The proposed additions would be 40 feet on the northwest end and 30 feet on the southeast end.

According to the corps, a preliminary determination indicates environmental impact statements will not be required for either project.

The final decision over whether to issue a permit for Osh-O-Nee and a revised permit for Boom Bay will be based on whether the public benefit matches or exceeds detrimental effects to fish life, the environment, and various other concerns, the corps said.

The Boom Bay revisions were prompted by an engineering error, Becher said earlier.

Citizens may send comments to the Department of the Army, Chicago District, Corps of Engineers, 219 South Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60604.

Under a plan worked out between New London National Bank, the First State Bank and the city, the banks will collect the bills at no charge to the city. # Women's commission shows little enthusiasm for ordination

VATICAN CITY — The Vatican's Commission on the Role of Women, showing little enthusiasm for the ordination of women to the priesthood, spent its first plenary session by members getting acquainted with each other and dividing up "homework" for its next meeting in March, 1974.

It was called profitable because "we got our feet wet and got a sense of direction," one member said.

A communique issued by the Vatican Nov. 17, the final day of the three-day meeting, said the agenda for the first meeting of the Study Commission on Women in Society and in the Church included four points:

— The woman as a person, biblical theological studies on womon in terms of God's plan, the woman in society and the woman in the church.

The first topic, woman as a person, will be "basic anthropology, an attempt to define what man-woman represents as modern image of God," a member explained.

The second topic, biblical-theological studies in terms of God's plan, flows from the first and perhaps overlaps it, but it will be an effort to define where man and woman stand in their unique relationship with God, the member added.

The subcommittee on the woman in society will gather material which will shed light on the treatment of women in different countries.

The last subcommittee, it was explained, will define where women are in the church and where, perhaps, they could be.

Asked if the commission discussed the ordination of women to the priesthood, a topic Pope Paul banned

Debbie Schellman

from the commission's competency last May, a member replied:

"As a matter of fact, many women members agreed that they found little or no enthusiasm in their representative countries for an ordination ceremony for women to any of the ministries in the church."

One of the women on the commission is a 21-year-old coed from Atlanta, Ga., who only last week caused some raised eyebrows with her selection.

Debbie Schellman was the only American on the commission and the Washington-based Center of Concern expressed "amazement" at the Pope's selection.

The task force reported, without mentioning the student by name, that:

"Despite the wide contacts of the force members, no one had information in regard to the choice of the American 'delegate.' The task force members were amazed that a college sophomore could be considered to represent the Catholic women of America.

"No one present knew of any form of consultation which had taken place before this participant was appointed to the commission.

"It seems clear to the task force that the approach and formation of the papal commission was nonparticipative, secretive and discriminatory —the very questions such a commission would be expected to address. Since the delegate apparently is not accountable to American women, the task force does not perceive that she represents anyone but herself in the discussion.

"In light of this lack of information, the task force decided to drop the topic from the discussion."

Schellman herself had stated at the time that she was named to the commission that it came as a surprise and that she did not know why she was chosen.

Bishops choose Wycislo for liaison panel

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Most Rev. Aloysius Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay, has been elected chairman of the Liaison with Conference of Major Superiors of Men Committee. It is one of seven committees of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, which recently received new chairmen.

Among the seven was an auxiliary, the Most Rev. Thomas J. Grady, of Chicago, who received the Priestly Life and Ministry chairmanship.

He was the only one that the National Federation of Priests' Councils felt was not high enough in position for the post.

Sources said they would have preferred a full bishop to deal with, although they said Grady was personally acceptable.

Taking part in the nativity scene are Lisa Keller and Mrs. Donald Schnell. Others in the cast are Oscar Ott, Mrs. Harlan Rau, Mark Schnell, Gary Ott, Barbara Rowland and Marilyn Boettcher. ## First UCC will feature rare music

A program of choral and instrumental music will be featured at the 9 and 10:30 a.m. services Sunday at the First Congregational United Church of Christ.

Featured will be a cantata by the choir, harpsichord, oboe and strings; a work based on Luther's German version of an ancient Latin hymn; and a narration during the seven-part Advent music.

The service will end with a choral recessional accompanied by English handbells. The instrumental prelude will begin about 15 minutes before the services.

Instrumentalists are Lucile Orbison and Harry Hoercherl, violin; Gary Putnam, cello; Dr. John Harris, harpsichord; Jane Longley, flute; and Marcia Orbison, oboe.

Mary Grist and Les Schmidt are soloists and John Davis is the narrator. Mary Kay Easty is the director of music for the congregation.

Archdiocese goes Madison Avenue

NEW YORK —"Father John O'Leary. If he is not in church, he's probably in jail."

That is how a new advertising campaign describes the duties of a New York priest. It is believed to be the biggest campaign ever undertaken by a diocese in the U.S. to foster vocations.

The ad shows O'Leary talking to prisoners through a cell door. According to the ad, the priest's "flock" is an ever changing group of 1,400 men who are waiting for trial or sentencing.

"But what can one priest do?" the ad asks.

"He brings you your freedom," is the answer, made by a prisoner.

The ad advises people interested in vocations to dial P-R-I-E-S-T, a special phone number set up by the archiocese.

New York's campaign is budgeted at around $100,000. It is financed by private contributions and by religious organizations.

The five ads of the series describe the work of individual priests in widely different apsects of New York life.

One is about a black priest, who directs the Joseph P. Kennedy Center in Harlem, and is titled, "the miracles on 134th street."

The ads will appear in several metropolitan newspapers and "Time," "Newsweek," "U.S. News and World Report," "Sports Illustrated" and "New York" magazines.

LCA ministerial roll reaches all-time high of 7,760 clergy

NEW YORK — The number of ministers in the Lutheran Church in America is at an all-time high and resignations last year ran less than one per cent.

At the close of 1972, LCA rolls had 7,760 clergymen and women, reflecting the 10th straight annual increase since North America's largest Lutheran Church was constituted in 1962.

A study of the 10-year statistics showed that 6.3 per cent, or a total of 496, have resigned or been dropped by action of the church because they are no longer under call from the LCA's ordained ministry.

Last year, 37 (.83 per cent) were eliminated.

The reason for the study was the recent announcement by Pope Paul that about 10 per cent of the Catholic priests had left the ministry during the decade, an LCA spokesman said.

The lowest number of LCA ministers dropped from the roll occurred in 1965 when only 17 left.

The highest number of decreases came in 1971 when 41 resigned and 36 were dropped, about one per cent. The 1972 total of 7,760 ministers included 1,181 retired.

At the close of 1972, there were 6,120 congregations in the LCA.

Lutheran practices hold that the name of an ordained minister is included on the clerical roll only as long as he or she holds a call from the church, with the exception of a person awaiting a call for a maximum of three years.

President of seminary will leave

MILWAUKEE —The president of one of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod's two schools for training ministerial candidates has announced his resignation, but denied that the action is related to a doctrinal dispute in the denomination.

The Rev. Richard J. Schultz, president of Concordia Seminary, Springfield, Ill., said he has accepted a position as mission developer for the church's New Jersey District.

The reason, he said, is "a sincere conviction that I can pursue my ministry in direct mission work" better.

A statement by the Rev. J.A.O. Preus, president of the synod, calling for a literalistic interpretation, was adopted by the synod's July convention and declared binding on its members.

The board of control of the Springfield seminary endorsed Preus' statement but the faculty did not make a public statement. However, the teachers informed the board of control that, as a group, they were in basic agreement with the statement as faithful to the synod's historical position.

The district where Schultz will serve is headed by a moderate, the Rev. Walter L. Zeile, who has been criticized recently for participating in a pan Lutheran Reformation service at Princeton University.

The service was conducted by ministers of the Missouri Synod, American Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church in America.

Schultz, 53, was named president of the Springfield seminary in 1970 when Preus was elected head of the synod. Schultz had been an associate professor for three years before that under Preus' presidency.

Work permits needed

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Participants in a Neighborhood Youth Corps program need work permits just like other minors between 16 and 18 who work, Atty. Gen. Robert Warren held Tuesday.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps is a federal program to provide young people from disadvantaged backgrounds with work experience.

Warren's opinion was requested by Philip E. Lerman, chairman of the Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

Ann Landers

Pronounce Iowa 'Ohio'

Dear Ann Landers: Please make room for one more comment to the Canadian who was upset because so many ignoramuses in the United States knew nothing about Canada. (He said people in Alabama thought Canadians were almost the same as Eskimos.)

We live in Des Moines. When we traveled east a few years ago we were appalled at the number of people who had never heard of Iowa. They didn't know that Iowa is a great agricultural state, that Herbert Hoover was born there and George Washington Carver, the great Negro scientist, was educated there.

A New England woman asked my wife where we were from. When my wife said, "Iowa," the Connecticut Yankee replied crisply, "We pronounce it Ohio in this part of the country."

How do you like that, Ann? —Cornfed Readers

Dear Corn: I love it! And by the way, when you compile your list of Iowans, don't forget Dear Abby and me. We were born in Sioux City.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17 and need an answer. I got a bad case of VD and thanks to my friends at work, they made me go to a doctor right away.

I told my girlfriend immediately thinking she would surely go to the free clinic and get herself checked. (I think I got it from her but I'm not sure.) To my surprise she said she didn't see any reason to go, that she'd know it if she had something.

My friends have tried to talk some sense into her head but she hates doctors and examinations and won't go. I've been advised by several people to drop her before I get the VD back. Is this possible? P.S. I like her a lot.—Eastcoaster

Dear E.: It is indeed possible to get re-infected and I hope you will take your friends' advice and stop seeing the girl. Her ignorance is frightening.

You say you aren't sure where you got the disease, which suggests that you are promiscuous. Please talk to the doctors at the clinic and learn how to protect yourself. A boy of 17 has many years of sexual activity ahead of him. Don't take any chances.

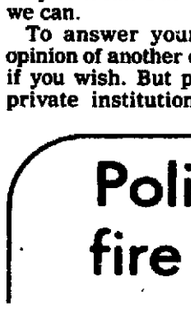

Dear Ann Landers: This is for "Feeling Ancient," the woman over 40 who wants to wear a bikini. She said she never had any children and has none of those ugly stretch marks that come with pregnancy. Her husband nixed the bikini but she wants one anyway.

Well, I'm 42, I've had five children and I don't have any ugly stretch marks either. Furthermore, I'll bet my figure is as good as hers. Until a few years ago I was on the thin side. When I started to "blossom out" as my husband calls it (I call it middle-aged spread), men began to notice me. I behaved myself but I enjoyed the whistles and attention and went in for plunging necklines, hip-huggers and, yes—bikinis. My husband became jealous and distrustful. It nearly broke up our marriage.

The lady's husband has already told her he doesn't want her to wear bikinis. That should settle it.—Oklahoma

Dear Ok.: Your advice was the same as mine and I appreciate the back-up. I received a load of letters from women who accused me of being "anti-female." One writer from Cleveland wrote: "You're up to your old tricks of playing to the male readers. No husband is going to tell me what to wear. I even have my casket outfit selected and arranged for." (How's that for forward planning?)

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

'Desocialized' young man needs help now

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son, 23, according to our psychiatrist, is suffering from schizophrenia. He suggested that we place our son in a private mental institution for at least 30 days.

The more we think about it the more frightened we become as he is absolutely harmless. He is kind, loving, polite, thoughtful. He does not smoke, take drugs or drink.

His only problem is that he sits in his room all day and evening reading. The only time he goes out is to walk down to the library at the corner.

Up to a couple of years ago he was great on sports, developed a beautiful physique and was a handsome boy. Today his appearance is completely changed. The long hair, beard and clothes are just not like our son. He sold his expensive skis and golf clubs. He took everything off his walls except a picture of one of the prophets of a religious sect.

Sometimes I feel we should get the opinion of another psychiatrist or physician as to whether he belongs in an institution. Once we place him in one, what assurance do we have that we can bring him out again? —J.J.

Let's start by admitting that schizophrenia (the most common form of emotional or "mental" illness) is not easy to treat. But we still must do what we can.

To answer your questions, get an opinion of another doctor or psychiatrist if you wish. But putting your son in a private institution is one way to get another opinion as to what can be done to help your son.

Please divest yourself of the idea that such patients are hospitalized only if they are dangerous; most of them are not. The point is to try to help them, in part by placing them in a different environment to see whether it will encourage a different reaction.

Your worry about being able to bring your son out of the institution is groundless. Of course you can bring him out if you wish. But if he begins making progress there, you may not want to.

Symptoms of schizophrenia can vary widely, but your son's is a classic example of one type, in which the patient withdraws, in his own quiet way, from contact with the world. I have seen others just like that.

Some years ago the term "desocialized" was used for mental patients. I am sorry the term has fallen so much into disuse because it is a descriptive word. The patient doesn't get along in society, so he withdraws, or he creates an imaginary world in his mind.

Certainly one thing that will be attempted in the institution will be to try to coax him into more activities with other people —to resocialize him. To get him moving back into normal society.

As I said, it's not easy, but shouldn't the effort be made? As long as he stays at home, and mostly just in his room, he is only going to become more firmly set in his "desocialized" pattern.

---

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our granddaughter died at 21 and donated a cornea and a kidney to two grateful people. How long do these transplants last? —J.G.

A cornea, transplanted in the eye, usually is permanent. A transplanted kidney sometimes is rejected, sometimes lasts for a matter of years, depending on how closely it is matched to the recipient's needs. The length of time is gradually becoming longer as more is learned about this type of transplant.

---

Note to J.A.R.: No, shingles does not turn into cancer, although in some cases shingles can linger for a long time.

Shingles can be a painful disease. To receive a copy of Thosteson's booklet, "The Facts About Shingles," write to him in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope and 15 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Police & fire beat

A 15-foot-long mobile home trailer was destroyed in an early morning fire today at the Ted D. Meyer residence, 10 Matthias Court.

The trailer was parked outside a garage of the apartment complex. There was some damage to the exterior of the garage.

Firemen said the trailer was engulfed in flames when they arrived about 12:45 a.m. They remained on the scene for about 45 minutes. The cause of the blaze has not been determined.

---

Two persons were injured about 6:45 p.m. Thursday in a two-car accident at Franklin and Superior streets.

Germaine A. Shillcox, a passenger in an auto driven by Debra A. Shillcox, 18, 2620 N. Bennett St., received head, leg and body injuries. A passenger in the second car, Kevin A. Mereness, 8, 612 George St., Kaukauna, sustained a minor head injury. The second driver was Priscilla E. Mereness, 32, also of the Kaukauna address.

Police said the Mereness auto failed to yield from a stop sign while heading north on Superior and struck the Shillcox car, moving east on Franklin.

Elsa C. Radichel, 69, route 2, Hortonville, received possible internal injuries about 11:30 a.m. Thursday in a two-car accident at Winnebago and Superior streets.

She was riding in a car driven by Nora N. Leitzke, 66, route 1, Hortonville, which police said was eastbound on Winnebago when it failed to yield for the second car, moving north on Superior and driven by Steve B. Farrell, 68, 2214 N. Appleton St.

---

Appleton police are investigating a hit-and-run accident in which a power pole was broken off just before 2 a.m. today near the intersection of Wisconsin Avenue and Richmond Street.

An unidentified citizen called police and said wires were sparking there. Police found the pole broken off at the base. They found 66 feet of skid marks leading up to the pole and said it must have been struck by an eastbound vehicle.

After the crash, the vehicle apparently backed up and pulled away from the scene. No evidence indicating the possible identity of the vehicle was found at the scene, although police said the vehicle probably would have extensive damage to its right front portion.

Two fire extinguishers were reported stolen from trucks last weekend at the John Hennes Trucking Co., 1600 W. Haskell St. The extinguishers were valued together at $45.

Health food products potentially lethal

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —Two products sold by health food stores as dietary supplements contain potentially fatal levels of hydrogen cyanide, the state health officer, George Handy, said Thursday.

Handy said the products have been identified by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration as Aprikern and Bee-Seventeen, derived from apricot kernels and distributed by General Research Laboratories of Van Nuys, Calif.

He said FDA scientists report five capsules of Aprikern could result in cyanide poisoning fatal to a child, and 20 capsules could be fatal to an adult.

U.S. — Soviet trade credited with helping in Mideast crisis

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Improved U.S.-Soviet relations brought about in part by trade helped prevent the Mideast war from expanding, says the chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp.

"I believe we will have permanent peace in the Middle East. I think a valuable lesson in the world of detente-through-trade has been learned," Dr. Armand Hammer told the Petroleum Club of Los Angeles Tuesday.

"In my opinion, trade between the United States and the Soviet Union is the cement, the linchpin, if you will, which helped to avoid a widening of the war during the recent crisis in the Mideast," he said.

Hammer, architect of massive trade agreements between the United States and Russia, also discussed the burgeoning trade between the two countries.

THE Post-Crescent

Magazine inks aren't for eating

As any parent knows, small children like to eat all kinds of things.

They may have spells of turning over the cereal bowl, spitting out the spinach and even throwing the finger foods at the wall —or the parent. But usually most anything goes in the mouth and quite often not the most appetizing bites. Cat hair, small pebbles, sawdust and the contents of wastebaskets appear to be edible.

Scientists now warn that the most appetizing looking glossy color pictures just aren't readily digestible. In fact they can be downright dangerous.

A study made at the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, as part of its overall research into the problems stemming from lead in the environment, developed the findings. The station was asked to look into the case of lead poisoning in a child who had not eaten the dangerous paint chips but did enjoy leaves, grass, dirt, newspapers and magazines. Other youngsters who chewed color magazine pages also were studied.

A child who eats four square inches of a glossy page printed in color gets a toxic dose of lead every time, according to the findings. Glossy pages are worse than comics because more ink is used. Yellow is the most toxic color with red, blue and black less so in that order. A biochemist at the station said that "about six weeks of it would really put a child at the critical stage." Lead poisoning is particularly insidious because it builds up in the youngster's body. The more he eats, the more he retains.

Researchers found that soil eaten by youngsters contained between 11 and 20 parts of lead per million and leaves and grass slightly higher at between 14 and 53 parts. Black and white newspapers had only two parts per million and the colored comics between 60 and 70 parts.

But the color pages of glossy magazines turned out to have a lead content of 1,140 to 3,600 per million. The actual amount of lead in the yellow alone runs 29,000 per million.

Maybe the picture magazines look more palatable. But the child who doesn't stick to regular food is better off with sticks and snails and puppy dog tails after all.

Australia's aborigine problem

The government of Australia arranged an election among that nation's aborigines to ensure they have representation in the government. But the move hasn't been popular even among the "abbos."

Prime Minister Gough Whitlam announced the move as an "historic and democratic process. . .to remove the stain from our national honor." The aborigines, according to the Sidney Morning Herald, like the American Indians, were "dispossessed of their land by the early white settlers and shot if they resisted."

In both countries the actions of a century and more ago can be deplored but accommodating remorse and a sincere desire for justice to reality isn't easy.

In the first place, in Australia the government has estimated that about 140,000 people are aborigines. However, this includes those of mixed ancestry. It also includes about 30,000 descendants of some Pacific islanders brought to Australia by notorious labor recruiters called for obvious reasons "blackbirders." Said one of their leaders, "they're forced to identify as something they're not and they resent it." Then there are some natives of islands north of Australia included in the count. They don't like it either.

More than that, the one aborigine member of the Australian Parliament claims that the election is a farce, that it gives no real power to the members of his race and was forced by the whites.

However, the aim of the government is probably both to give some real representation to the aborigines and to remove reasons for complaints about discrimination from the government. The National Aboriginal Consultive Committee of 41 members has been set up to advise the Department of Aboriginal Affairs. It is aimed at trying to improve the lot of a people who too often have had only unpleasant contact with their white neighbors and whose general introduction to the white men's institutions has been in jail.

As in the United States, the color bar has been lifted first of all in the sports world. A couple of the top Australian boxers are aborigines and so is Evonne Goolagong, a top women's tennis player. But very few other aborigines prosper. And there is the controversy about how best for them to survive in the white man's world.

The Consultive Committee would appear to be a decent vehicle to find out.

Arguing won't produce oil

It was bound to be that Republicans and Democrats would get into a shouting match over who is to blame for the energy shortage. But it won't help matters.

President Nixon refers to messages sent Congress. There was a warning two years ago that a crisis was coming. And a request for seven pieces of legislation last April of which only the Alaska pipeline bill has been produced.

Not so, responds House Speaker Carl Albert. He says the administration is guilty of a lack of leadership and a disjointed policy on things like oil imports, price controls and what now is the embargo of Arabian oil.

The truth is there is plenty of blame to go around —for an administration preoccupied with other things, for a Congress which acts only when crisis comes and for a public which didn't want to worry about where the next gallon of heating fuel or gasoline was coming from.

Thus, the task is to go on from where we are. The Senate has produced a bill granting the President broad powers in the allocation of fuels, in the reduction of energy uses and in the suspension of anti-pollution laws. There are some second thoughts about that now in that the Senate may have acted in a stampede. Ironically, the bill comes at a time when Congress is talking about reclaiming powers from the executive branch. When it acts on the bill, the House could well add provisions for congressional review and ratification of executive acts.

Then, the necessity will be for Congress and the administration to work in harness on the President's space program-type of undertaking to produce new energy sources. A public asked to make sacrifices for what could be a long time should expect no less than responsible cooperation among branches of government divided in partisan control.

Bickering over blame is not going to help in getting the job done. There will be plenty of time for that in next year's congressional election campaigns.

John Wyngaard

No move to reform campaign funding

MADISON — Reasonable men and women might have presumed that the ugly revelations of the coaxing of huge sums of money from unwilling givers in the last presidential campaign and the unsavory uses to which much of it was put would have brought a national demand for reform of what in the minds of thoughtful voters must be one of the great scandals of the times.

Yet unless this watcher-listener in the capital city of Wisconsin where politics is the major industry is deaf and astigmatic, such pressure under force of revulsion has not resulted.

No sign of any changes

Indeed, some of the most respected of the critics of public affairs have assumed a fatalistic attitude that bodes ill for the enactment of even the more modest proposals for the elimination of the visible evils of a system of campaign financing that has grown up without controls and has become increasingly profligate and arrogant.

The other day a major voice of commentary on Wisconsin public affairs remarked casually that "without some kind of public subsidy of (election) campaigns, there is no sensible way to reduce reliance on wealthy donors who expect favors."

That is the equivalent of saying that if the people don't choose to be taxed for the support of politicians' campaign expense accounts the whole issue of campaign finance reform is hopeless.

That is such a thoughtless conclusion as to defy the whole idea of reform. At a most optimistic interpretation, it is doubtful that any early Wisconsin legislature will tax the people for the benefit of campaigners — including the members of that legislature.

The obvious alternative is to write a strict code of rules limiting the amounts that will be permitted by law and establishing an audit and control system that assures the voter that the politician is complying with the spirit and the letter of those controls.

Those who dismiss the possibility of enacting such a code quite overlook the fact that it has not been tried here or elsewhere in modern times. The state election law limitations were gutted more than 40 years ago. They were once accepted literally and regarded as enforceable.

Today there is casual talk about a serious candidate for governor needing $500,000 to make the effort. Who established such a rule? There is talk of raising $25,000 to elect a single candidate in the state senate. But whose calculations are these?

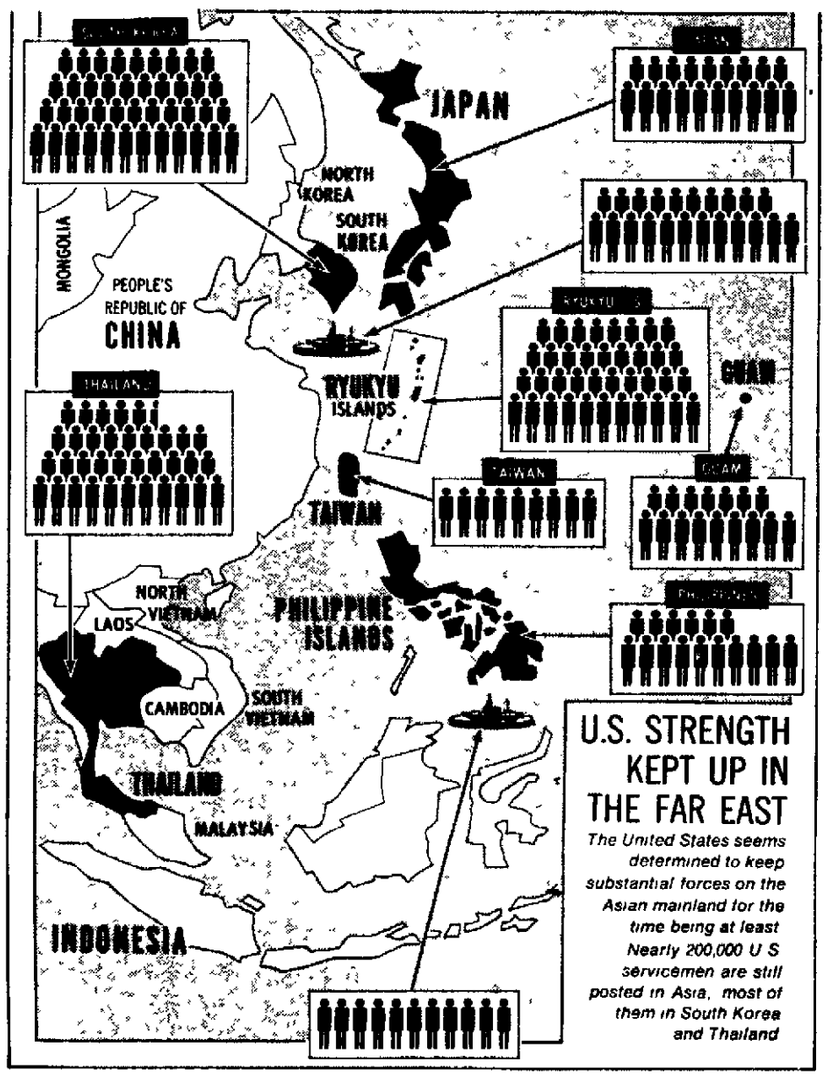

The most important consideration is the equalization of campaign finance. I have never met a candidate who was not willing to concede that much of the campaign budget was wasted — under competitive pressures. If each candidate knew that his rival was being limited and that he was being watched, equality of competition could be restored — without regard to the doubtful consent of the taxpayer for the use of his money to subsidize a candidate for who he has only distaste.

Waste of money admitted

I have never met a campaign manager of experience who did not acknowledge that much of the typical campaign budget is wasted. The challenged spend more because the challenger is spending, and vice versa. Thus money has become the dominant element of election campaigning, superseding ideas, positions, character, training, experience and other qualities once thought to be relevant.

The disturbing fact is that in a jurisdiction where there is a reasonable balance between parties in most election years, there is no inducement for reform. The minority may become the majority tomorrow with all of the disturbing perquisites attending.

This state once pioneered in cleansing its political processes. Today it lags. In spite of the hateful revelations of the year, no single voice in the legislature in either party has been heard on the subject, with the honorable exception of Rep. John Oestreicher of Marshfield, and he may have become discouraged by calculated indifference.

No sign of cuts in Asian military vigil

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the eve of his designation as secretary of state, Henry Kissinger told the U.S. Senate that "very substantial reductions" in U. S. military strength in Asia would probably take place in the next five or ten years. But there is no sign yet of such a move.

U.S. government officials and military planners in Washington seem determined to keep substantial forces in both Korea and Thailand for the time being at least.

Almost 200,000 American servicemen are now posted in Southeast Asia and the Pacific; some 80,000 of them stationed in South Korea and Thailand.

With 42,000 Americans standing vigil, South Korea has the biggest U. S. ground force in Asia. Thailand, in turn, has the largest concentration of U.S. warplanes anywhere outside the United States. There are also U.S. military personnel based on ships and in Japan, Guam, Taiwan, the Philipp nes and the Ryukus Islands.

Commenting on the force maintained in South Korea, Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements said recently that North Korea has modernized its military arsenal and has been moving some of its forces toward the south

The North Koreans are also reported to have built new airfields near the demilitarized zone, beefed up their force of MIG21 jets, and acquired some new missile-firing Russian-made warships.

A program for reduction of U.S. forces in Korea began in early 1971, but there have been indications that it may be delayed because of congressional cutbacks in funds for the operation.

In Thailand, U.S. forces now total about 38,000 men following withdrawal of some 6,000 over the past seven months and there are forecasts that the number will be cut another 6,000 in the next few months.

Some government officials want to speed up American withdrawals from Thailand, but others favor a more cautious approach. Authorities in Bangkok fear the economic consequences that would result from a loss of U.S. military spending in Thailand.

The United States has made a practice of calling any troop cuts in Thailand reductions rather than withdrawals, apparently so that North Vietnam will not interpret any such moves as a military pullout.

Gasoline for snowmobiles?

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

With all the talk about an "energy crisis" I am rather surprised that nobody has yet mentioned recreational vehicles. After all, the snowmobile does use gasoline, too.

Even our governor who is so concerned that there won't be enough gasoline to go around hasn't even mentioned the subject.

It makes a guy wonder. . . .

"SEEMS THERE WILL ALWAYS BE ENOUGH POWER TO BROADCAST THE LATEST CRISIS MESSAGE"

Marianne Means

Now they can say: 'We told you so'

WASHINGTON —In retrospect, many of the attacks on President Nixon made one year ago by Sen. George McGovern seem quite tame now.

One document, in fact, that McGovern refused to use publicly because he felt it was too pessimistic and vitriolic turns out to be sadly prophetic. The rejected speech draft was an attempt to predict what life would be like in this country one year after Nixon's re-election.

It was put together by an ad hoc campaign committee, led by William Rodgers, an author; Thomas Mechling, a businessman who is currently a senate candidate in Nevada; and Walter Sheridan, an investigator who once worked for Robert F. Kennedy.

Couldn't convince him

Rodgers and Mechling, with the vision of hindsight, felt their paper was so inspired they tried to persuade McGovern this summer to resurrect it. The senator, however, replied that he was now reluctant to deliver such a speech "for fear of sounding like a sore loser."

The paper's grim, partisan portrayal may have seemed like so much heated rhetoric a year ago. But today it rings uncomfortably of the truth.

It predicted that after one more year of Nixon we would see an inflationary 40-cent loaf of bread and a 45-cent quart of milk, as a logical legacy of the grain deals and retail price increases. My friendly local supermarket today was selling milk at 43 cents a quart and Pepperidge Farm white bread and Safeway giant white loaves for 45 cents.

It predicted that the administration would be so bogged down in corruption that it would become an underground government, a "secret bookie joint kind of government" that would have to be shielded from the public because it could not withstand inquiry, reasoning, or open dialogue. That is not an unreasonable description of what's been going on here the past several months.

It predicted that the President's assaults against free expression in the media would mount sharply, especially where criticism of Nixon's use of power was involved. True enough.

Charged Nixon indifferent

It contended that Nixon's "indifference" to human concerns, his preference for military expenditures over economic reconstruction, the failure of his "planned recession" to combat inflation, and his enormous deficit would result in an increase in unemployment and a substantial rise in taxes.

The current fuel crisis has led to forecasts of a jump in unemployment from 4.5 per cent to 8 per cent just around the corner. The paper envisioned a value added tax, which has not happened, but neither has the property tax reduction and other reforms that Nixon promised. In fact, the administration's official tax program submitted to Congress in May retained all the basic provisions that reduce taxes for business investors, relating to capital gains, depreciation, the depletion allowance, and so on.

One forecast of the Rodgers-Mechling document, however, seems certain never to come true in light of the Watergate scandal. The paper envisioned the Bicentennial celebration of 1976 as little more than the canonization of Richard Nixon. It protested that commission officials were trying to rewrite history to exalt Nixon. "Imagine putting up with four suffocating years of cleaning up Nixon for preservation in history," the paper said.

But the Watergate crimes are settling Nixon's place in history, and it won't be something to celebrate.

Potomac Fever

Gerald Ford admitted he used leads from the Justice Department to try to impeach Justice Douglas. As efficient as a Laurel and Hardy caper.

---

Nixon's popularity is reviving in the South since his supporters stopped reading the news.

---

Senator Hruska delayed calling Haig for his version against Richardson's on the Cox firing. He's afraid to lean on Mr. Clean.

---

Senator Saxbe can't get the Attorney General job unless he takes a pay cut. That's like quitting the Dolphins to play for the Oilers.

---

Former White House aide Butterfield called the recording system "sophisticated", while Nixon said it was a "make-shift" little Sony. Sounds more like a little baloney.

Dr. Steele honored at reception

100 YEARS AGO
Appleton Crescent, Dec. 6, 1873.

The public reception given by the students and invited guests at the College Chapel on Saturday evening last was an interesting episode in the successful educational career of Dr. (George McKendree) Steele.

Prof. Yocum was assigned the pleasant honor of delivering the welcoming address in behalf of the students and guests present, which was happily responded to by the Dr.

After this, Mr. Gamble, of the senior class, in a few appropriate remarks, presented the (Lawrence University) President with a handsome gold watch as a testimonial of the students' esteem and regard for their beloved instructor. It is almost needless to remark that the surprise was complete, but the Dr. was by no means at a loss to express his feelings in receiving the token of their respect.

The reception was earned and cordial in every respect, and must have been gratifying to Dr. Steele, who realizes the extent of affection in which he is held, not only by the students, but by our citizens as well.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Nov. 27, 1948.

Speakers for the All Saints Episcopal Guild lecture series that season included George Jones, William A. McConagha, William Burnet Easton Jr., Chandler W. Rowe, James W. Ming and Charles M. Brooks Jr. All six were Lawrence College professors.

Tuxis, young people's organization at Memorial Presbyterian Church, was sponsoring a lecture by Mrs. Herbert Guerke, who had returned from Germany that fall after two years there. Mrs. Guerke was to speak on German youth.

Carla Heller was president of the church group, and was to be assisted in the worship service preceding the talk by members Carol McGee, Tom Thompson and John Mielke.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Nov. 30, 1963.

The second Lions club in Appleton, named the Appleton Evening Lions Club, was to receive its chapter the next Tuesday at a dinner meeting at Holiday Inn. Schafeec Mansour, Wausau, secretary of Wisconsin Lions, was to be the speaker.

LaVahn Maesch, director of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, was to attend the convention of the National Association of Schools of Music in Chicago. Maesch was the current vice president of the organization and had served as one of the regional chairmen for several years.

Norma Justmann and John Steinberg, Appleton High, and Barbara Utschig, Xavier High, were among the Appleton students attending the Fifth District Youth Conference that day.

Attic honors Zoe Cloak

Jingo's heard the exciting word that Attic Theatre will hold a theater-community Zoe Cloak Night for its 25th anniversary Wednesday, Dec. 12, at Embassy Motor Lodge. What better program is there than to honor the founder of the community theater that has come a long way from the Cloak attic it started in way back in 1948.

The name of Zoe Cloak is synonymous with theater and not only in the Fox Cities area, either, where many theatergoers, former and present actors consider her a genuine "First Lady" of same. She never gave up on the idea that a community theater had a place in the cultural life of Appleton and its surrounding area. Right after her arrival here in 1930, Mrs. Cloak started working on the idea. Her first venture was a children's theater which had several successful seasons and which finally evolved into the old Little Theater of the Fox River Valley. For a dozen years or more, this community group flourished and worked to bring a winter season to the community with both ups and downs of success during its heyday. Then, 25 years ago, she tried again and founded Attic Theater and directed its dramatic life through all its growing years until it was established as a going, summer theater that's known today beyond its Fox Cities location. Mrs. Cloak retired as the theater's active director in 1961.

Now she will be honored again by both theater and community at a special dinner program the night of Dec. 12. The event is open to the public and anyone interested in the event may send for one or more tickets ($4.50 per person) no later than Dec. 3. The address is Attic Theatre, P.O. Box 41, Appleton, Wis. 54911. The committee in charge asks that the envelopes for the reservations plus check or money order be marked "Zoe Cloak Night."

Jingo has only a brief idea of the actual program, probably so it won't be spoiled by too much notice. There will be a review of highlights of Mrs. Cloak's years with Attic Theatre, for sure. There also will be a presentation of songs from past Attic musicals as well as a preview of the coming winter performances of the Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis.

With a fellowship hour starting at 6 p.m., dinner at 7 p.m. and then a program of theatricals and song with the spotlight on Zoe Cloak, Dec. 12 promises to be a red letter evening.

Special look at China

8 - 9 — Channels 9-11 — "The People Of People's China" is a special documentary devoted to an in-depth study of these people, designed to separate the myth from the reality of their lifestyle. Correspondent Ted Koppel conducts interviews of representative Chinese people in all occupations to present a fair profile.

8 - 10 — Channel 5 — "Frankenstein: The True Story" continues its very good path to a suspenseful conclusion. James Mason gets his inning in this part as the evil Dr. Polidori. An all-star cast, a literate script and beautiful location photography make this extremely good — and not at all like the Frankenstein you may remember.

3:30 - Conclusion — Channel 11 — "Wide World Of Sports" visits Athens, Greece and the World Professional High Diving Championship with commentary by Keith Jackson; The Tournament of Thrills Auto Daredevil Championships from Tampa, Florida, covered by Bill Flemming, and Bud Palmer with the National Acrobatic Skiing Championship from Sun Valley, Idaho.

7 - 8 — Channel 5 — A character who was on "Emergency!" two years ago shows up to keep a promise to Gage (Randolph Mantooth). And the promise causes trouble for the station house and the little dog, Boot. Rescues include a couple trapped in their house and a young man in a catatonic state.

7:30 - 8 — Channels 2-7 — "MASH" has an excellent episode, with Hawkeye and Trapper (Alan Alda and Wayne Rogers) trying to find someone who will requisition a germ incubator for their hospital.

8 - 8:30 — Channels 2-7 — "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" is Ted Knight's episode as he is persuaded to run for a City Council primary, even if it's not for his party. He's very funny standing up to Lou (Ed Asner), and he's great trying to turn a planned victory speech into a concession speech.

8:30 - 9 — Channels 2-7 — "The Bob Newhart Show" has a very funny segment, all about Howard (Bill Daily) and his problem with his ex-wife and her live-in boyfriend. The dialogue is very funny and so are some sub-plots, particularly one about a wildly dressed client of Bob's.

Prime-time FCC rules may change

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission has proposed modifying its controversial rule limiting network programming during prime-time hours.

The proposed change would allow network-affiliated stations an extra hour of network programming on Sunday night without restrictions.

It would also let the stations use another 30 minutes of prime evening time one of the other six nights for certain network programs, such as children's specials, public affairs programs or documentary specials.

The agency said it expects to officially decide on the matter "before the end of the year."

Under the current rule, which went into effect in October 1971, the top 50 network-affiliated stations are limited to showing only three hours of network programming each night from 7 to 11 p.m.

The NBC television network, which petitioned the FCC to rescind the rule when it first went into effect, praised the FCC move as "a sound adjustment in the prime-time rule." ABC also said it was pleased with the proposed change. CBS said it was still studying the proposal and had no comment.

Danish film grant on Christ is withdrawn

COPENHAGEN (AP) — The Danish Film Institute has withdrawn its $100,000 grant for a controversial film purporting to depict the love life of Jesus Christ.

In explaining its action Tuesday, the institute said there was no certainty that the filming could begin within the stipulated time. It said nothing of the worldwide protests against the project.

Filmmaker Jens Thorsen had been given until last Sunday to tell the institute where he proposed to shoot the movie. In August, French authorities vetoed his original plan to film the picture in the south of France.

Thorsen and his other financial backers said they had obtained written permission to shoot the film in an undisclosed country. He insisted that the country remain unidentified lest opponents start another movement to thwart the plan.

More than 140,000 Danes signed a petition to the government protesting public support for the "pornographic and blasphemous" project. Danish embassies received thousands of protests.

Delay enemy's ruff to develop long suit

Opening lead — ♣ 9

South was expected to get to four hearts, and West was required to open the nine of clubs. Naturally, East took the ace and returned the queen of clubs, giving South his problem.

The "natural" play is to put up the king of clubs at once from the South hand. This may be natural, but it is also fatal.

West ruffs and leads a spade through dummy's ace-queen. Declarer is compelled to try the finesse, which loses. East promptly cashes the jack of clubs, and the contract is defeated then and there.

MUST HOLD UP

South must hold up the king of clubs to make sure of the contract. This permits East to win the second trick with the queen of clubs.

East's best defense is to continue with his low club, allowing West to ruff the king of clubs.

Now West leads a spade through dummy, but it is no longer necessary for declarer to risk the finesse. He can put up dummy's ace of spades and ruff a club with a high trump. This sets up dummy's last club.

South continues by drawing trumps, ending in the dummy. He then cashes dummy's ten of clubs, discarding the jack of spades from his hand.

The point is that South cannot prevent West from ruffing out the king of clubs, but he can delay the ruff until the third round of the suit. This puts South in position to set up a club trick in dummy and thus assure the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens the bidding with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S- A Q 6 H- Q 10 8 D- 8 7 C- 10 7 4 3 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You cannot afford to bid the clubs with only 8 points in high cards and mediocre distribution. The hand is worth only one bid, not two, and you must therefore raise partner's major suit.

Square up small art with mini-triangle

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project is for boys and girls who like to draw and consequently have need from time to time for a

Carry in your pocket

triangle. This instrument is handy for squaring up small pieces of artwork and also for drawing straight lines.

The little triangle is of a size you can carry in your pocket and can be used for jobs for which a regular, full-size triangle would be too large.

To make it all you have to do is find a discarded, out-of-date plastic pocket calendar like those which are given away at banks, office supply stores and other such places. Cut the calendar in half diagonally as shown at the top of the drawing above. Be sure this diagonal cut is perfectly straight. There is nothing else to do.

Use the triangle as shown at the bottom of the illustration above.

Monday, lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Firing charged at canal

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel accused Egypt of launching attacks at three points on the west bank of the Suez Canal. The Israeli command said the Egyptian thrusts were pushed back after artillery and mortar exchanges. No casualties were reported. Lt. Gen. Ensio Siilasvuo of Finland, commander of the United Nations peacekeeping force, continued efforts to reopen the Israeli-Egyptian cease-fire talks, which Egypt broke off on Thursday. He flew to Jerusalem for talks with Defense Minister Moshe Dayan after meeting in Cairo with Egyptian War Minister Ahmed Ismail.

Rockefeller bones found

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A German television team plans to leave Thailand Sunday with what it claims are the bones of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's son Michael, the Bangkok Post said. The Post said a Dutch missionary in New Guinea led the team to the remains of young Rockefeller, who vanished during a jungle photo expedition there in November 1961. The Germans reportedly traded some pocket knives and other items for the bones and will turn the remains over to German police.

Korean students rally

SEOUL (AP) — Some 1,000 Pusan National University students held a campus rally to demand political reforms and then tried to march into the streets. They were held back by riot police and faculty. No one was reported hurt. Pusan, on South Korea's south coast, is the country's second largest city. Smaller groups of students staged demonstrations in Seoul in support of such demands as expanded civil liberties, press freedom and dissolution of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency.

Filling stations close

NEW YORK (AP) — Most service station owners across the country plan to close their gas pumps on Sunday either because they don't have the fuel to sell or because they're trying to conserve energy as requested by President Nixon. An Associated Press survey shows the great majority of stations expect to close this Sunday. Industry spokesmen and trade association representatives in 31 states said at least 75 per cent of the stations would sell no gas from 9 p.m. Saturday to midnight Sunday.

'Klunk' on Skylab

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts have been alerted for a repeat of a "klunkity klunk" sound that briefly vibrated a section of their space station. Neither the astronauts nor mission control were particularly concerned about the noise, but they would like to know what caused it. Flight director Phil Shaffer said experts on the ground were running computer checks to track down the source of the noise.

Pioneer in radiation

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Pioneer 10 is bucking increased storms of radiation as it plunges faster and faster toward an historic encounter with the planet Jupiter on Monday. Late Friday, the unmanned space probe's instruments began measuring an increase in the strength of Jupiter's magnetic field. At the same time, the number and intensity of electrons and protons — electrically charged particles — began increasing. This indicated the spacecraft was pushing into belts of potentially damaging radiation that mission scientists worry could spoil man's first close-up view of the solar system's largest planet. The spacecraft is to swing to within 81,000 miles of Jupiter Monday evening.

Scott touts disclosure

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott says President Nixon won't get out of the Watergate "mess" unless he fulfills a promise to disclose all records and tape recordings relating to the scandal. "I think that promise of candor is fine, but actual, complete candor is essential," the Pennsylvanian said in an interview taped here Friday for broadcast Sunday on WTAE-TV. He said the American people have lost confidence in the President over Watergate and that "it is his fault until he answers all of these things in the same total and absolute manner that the charges are being brought. It is the only way the people are going to let him off the hook."

Senate approves increase in Social Security benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted overwhelmingly to increase Social Security benefits 11 per cent and set up a system of grants for low-income working families.

The 66-8 vote Friday night sent the legislation to conference with the House, which also has approved an 11 per cent across-the-board boost in Social Security payments for the 30 million persons now on the rolls.

The House provisions were in a different bill than the one cleared by the Senate.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., manager of the Senate version, said he was confident a compromise would be sent to President Nixon before the 1973 session ends.

The Senate debated the legislation for three days, adding dozens of provisions including $2.8 billion worth of new Social Security benefits.

In addition, the measure contains many revisions of the welfare system that are not in the House version.

The most important of these would set up work bonus payments to low-income families with children, which could be as much as $400 a year.

The payments would be 10 per cent of income up to a $4,000 earnings level. An estimated 4 million working heads of families would benefit.

It is expected many of the Senate provisions will be dropped in conference to cut the cost.

The Social Security increase would take effect in two steps, 7 per cent effective immediately and 4 per cent next June.

Solons don't use influence in pollution cases

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The head of Wisconsin's Division of Environmental Protection said Thursday he knew of no instances of a legislator trying to coerce state offocials to influence the outcome of an antipollution case.

Thomas Frangos told the state Ethics Board lawmakers do inquire about the status of pollution cases in behalf of constituents, but he said he doesn't know of any cases where those inquiries crossed the line and became threats.

"We never get a request that says 'go easy' but we get a partial pleading of a constituent's case," Frangos said.

Those sorts of arguments, he said, come from both lawmakers and state agencies such as the Department of Business Development and the Agriculture Department.

Even the partial advocacy of an industry's position in an antipollution case by a public officials is not seen often, Frangos said.

Frangos, administator of the division for nearly seven years, said he feels his staff operates in a climate that allows impartial decisions on matters related to air and water pollution and diversion or impoundment of waterways.

But he said there was a possibility of reprisal at budget time if the agency took a position unpopular with prominent state officials.

Nelson asks gas-hog tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Automobiles which get poor gasoline mileage would carry tax penalties for their purchasers, according to a proposal co-sponsored by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

The plan, introduced Thursday, would take full effect on 1979 model autos and would set "fuel efficiency" excise taxes to be added to purchase prices from dealers.

A car which got 20 miles per gallon of gasoline or more would not be taxed, but the tax on a car getting 10 miles per gallon would be $1,435, with other cars taxed in relation to their mileage.

The tax would first take effect on 1977 models, with tax amounts ranging from $20 to $480 on cars with mileage ranging from 19 to 10 miles per gallon.

The bill, co-sponsored by Sens. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Frank Moss, D-Utah, would exempt commercial and farm vehicles.

Nelson said foreign car sales have been on the rise as the result of increasing fuel consumption of standard American cars and the energy crisis could be expected to accelerate the trend.

"We simply cannot leave jobs in the automobile industry and our rapidly diminishing natural resource base at the mercy of gas guzzling dinasaurs," Nelson said.

Kasten warns of state $150 million 'fiscal time bomb'

BY DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent staff writer

NEENAH-MENASHA — Political activism from a concerned electorate is the best way to assure an optimistic and positive future for Wisconsin taxpayers, according to State Sen. Robert W. Kasten, R-Brown Deer.

Kasten, attempting to establish himself as a Republican spokesman, Friday urged the Neenah-Menasha Chamber of Commerce legislative committee to get involved to make sure that the taxpayer has as much voice in state government as the "tax user or spender."

An active unannounced candidate for the GOP nomination for governor, Kasten pointed to the current state budget as one which represents the tax spending interest.

At 31, Kasten is the youngest man ever to serve on the legislative joint finance and to be named to the compromise committee which established the new biennial budget.

"We started out with three basic goals with the budget, including returning the surplus to the taxpayers: reduce the growth of government, and reduce important kinds of taxation," he said.

The first-term state senator readily admitted that the Republicans have failed in their first goal, and he charged that because a lot of "one-shot" money was spent on salaries and on-going programs which he predicted would lead to a $150 million shortage going into the 1975 budget.

"The extra money came from unused revenue sharing, over-taxation from the 1971 tax increase and unexpected economic growth.

"We wanted to get this money back to the people, but we were not successful and the result is going to be a shortfall in two years which could mean a 15 per cent increase in the personal income tax—if that were the only method used.

"We also tried to get a handle on the growth of government which is now growing at 4.5 times the rate of the state population. But the budget reflects a 44 per cent increase in spending and this compares to an 8 per cent increase in the state's Gross National Product.

"Because there was a surplus, the 44 per cent increase in spending was possible without a tax increase. But just where are we going?" he asked.

"We're sitting on a fiscal time bomb," he said, stressing the crisis which could be facing the legislature in 1975.

However, the Republican-controlled Senate "was able to make some gains" he said. He cited specifics such as dropping sales tax on pollution abatement equipment and phasing out the personal property tax on stocks beginning in 1977.

"Now the governor is talking about the business tax relief. This was not a part of the governor's budget. It became a part only after the conference committee was guaranteed that it would not be vetoed.

"We jammed it down his throat and now he is talking of it as tax relief within the budget. It came from our influence—not his.

"But, he doesn't talk about the state financing welfare," Kasten said, making a reference to Lucey's move to finance all welfare through the state instead of the local level. "At a time when people are getting rich helping the poor, welfare has reached unbelievable levels."

"He's also quiet on the priosons and the erosion of local control and the 6 per cent restrictions on local tax levies," Kasten charged.

Other points by Kasten, included:

— Strong opposition to full-time legislators. "I think it's important to have citizen-legislators to offer a more responsive legislature." He supported legislative reform but nothing which would mean more time. That, he argued, would mean that "legislators are influenced by everyone except their constituents, like in Washington now."

—Predicted the passage of a 55-mile-an-hour speed limit to cope with the energy crisis.

— An optimistic appraisal of the current solid waste disposal legislation he's sponsoring. The proposal, which has already passed the Assembly, will pass the Senate with a "75 per cent majority" he said.

—Support for a new bill which would require legislative review of administrative rules before they go into effect. "Now the only time that review is called is when there's a question," he said, offering that "many times the rules do not reflect the legislative intent."

Menasha files response to user fee challenge

MENASHA —The city was scheduled to file its answers Friday to a series of more than 40 questions surrounding the Menasha Corp. challenge to the city's interim industrial fee.

The company, in July, filed a law suit against the city, arguing that its John Strange Paper Board Division was being overcharged on the interim user fee. The overcharges, the company claimed, were $46,717 in 1972 and was continuing at the same rate this year.

Mayor James Adams and City Atty. Richard Steffens have been working for the past two weeks on the city's response to the series of questions concerning the establishment, implementation and procedures connected with the user fee.

The main thrust of the law suit is that the company says it was being overcharged according to metering and sampling devices it had installed.

Adams has indicated that as soon as the city can put the sewage commission-approved measuring devices on line, that charges would then be based on actual flow and strength of the effluent.

The court action will likely stretch out for some time since appeals will probably be filed by the loser in the first round in Winnebago County Circuit Court.

In its suit, Menasha Corp., says that according to the measuring devices it has installed, its cost for 1972 should have been $75,508 instead of the $122,226 it was assessed according to terms of the interim rate.

Earlier this year the council had rejected a request for the refund. The rejection came because the city didn't think it would be fair to allow one industry to pay according to metering and sampling while others were being charged on terms of the interim rate.

Juveniles found delinquent on rules, car theft charges

NEENAH — Several teenagers were found delinquent Thursday when they appeared before Winnebago County Judge James Sarres here.

Sarres placed a Neenah girl, 17, on supervision to the county department of social services for a year after she pleaded guilty to violating rules he imposed earlier.

She was waived to adult court on counts of resisting arrest, possession of narcotics and possession of fermented malt beverages.

Authorities said the girl, who has a long juvenile record, injured two policemen during an escape attempt at the Neenah Police Station Nov. 11.

Several patrolmen chased the girl on foot Nov. 11 after seeing her and a 15-year-old companion with beer in their possession downtown. In an ensuing struggle at the police station, the girl broke a policeman's finger and sprained the wrist of another while trying to escape.

She is being held in detention pending her court appearance.

Sarres adjourned the case of the other girl to Dec. 13, to permit her time to consult with an attorney. Police lodged charges of resisting arrest and possessing fermented malt beverages.

Four Neenah boys, two 15 and two 16, were found delinquent in connection with the theft of an auto from Stan Johnson Ford Nov. 12.

Three of the boys were placed under the supervision of the welfare department for a year, and lost several personal privileges. They were charged for taking an auto without the owner's consent.

For the fourth youth, charged with aiding and abetting auto theft, Sarres slated further proceedings Dec. 27. The youth was grounded until then. The boys, who turned themselves into Iowa authorities in the city where they drove the car, pleaded guilty.

In three other unrelated cases, Sarres, after imposing delinquency findings, directed:

— A year's supervision for a 17-year old Neenah boy who admitted to taking a bicycle Aug. 29.

— A year's supervision for a 16-year old Neenah boy who pleaded guilty to possessing marijuana at the Boy's Brigade Oct. 30.

— Adjourned to Dec. 5 disposition in the case of a 13-year-old Neenah boy who admitted punching another boy at Conant Junior High School Nov. 16, after the boy refused to give him money. He is being held in detention.

County seeks corps ok for two breakwaters

OSHKOSH —County Executive Orrin King has applied to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for permits to construct a breakwater at the Osh-O-Nee boat slip in the Town of Vinland, and to extend a breakwater at Boom Bay on Lake Poygan.

In early August, the State Department of Natural Resources granted permits for both projects.

The corps asked citizens having objections to either project or having any other information to file it before Dec. 13.

The Osh-O-Nee site, a favorite with boaters and fishermen, is located about six miles south of Neenah off County Trunk A. Three are parking facilities for about 150 vehicles.

The proposed breakwater would be semi-circular, 167-feet long, and six feet high, with a six-foot flat spot at the top. The pyramid-shaped structure would be constructed of riprap.

The breakwater would extend in a clockwise direction from the shoreline.

According to Al Becher, chairman of the county's parks committee, the purpose of the breakwater is to ease rough water conditions experienced on windy days. Osh-O-Nee has three paved boat slips.

His committee has a $3,000 budget for the job, which earlier he thought could be started in spring, pending the official approvals. Local costs qualify for matching state aid.

At Boom Bay, riprap additions would be made to both ends of the breakwater. The proposed additions would be 40 feet on the northwest end and 30 feet on the southeast end.

According to the corps, a preliminary determination indicates environmental impact statements will not be required for either project.

The final decision over whether to issue a permit for Osh-O-Nee and a revised permit for Boom Bay will be based on whether the public benefit matches or exceeds detrimental effects to fish life, the environment, and various other concerns, the corps said.

The Boom Bay revisions were prompted by an engineering error, Becher said earlier.

Citizens may send comments to the Department of the Army, Chicago District, Corps of Engineers, 219 South Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60604.

Former Menasha man has two years added to state prison term

A 22-year-old former Menasha man, convicted Thursday of false swearing, was sentenced Friday to two years in the state prison.

Acting Circuit Judge R. Thomas Cane ordered that the sentence run consecutively to a three-year term the defendant, Harold Huff, presently is serving at the Green Bay Reformatory. Huff had been sentenced on March 2 to the three-year term for two counts of burglary by Circuit Judge Gordon Myse.

A 12-member jury deliberated only about 20 minutes before returning the guilty verdict Thursday against Huff, who had been accused of making inconsistent statements in Feb. 12 testimony before Myse and other testimony given during September before acting Circuit Judge Urban P. Van Susteren.

The testimony concerned Huff's alleged participation in a Nov. 21, 1972 break-in at the Greenville Co-op Gas Co.

Huff's trial was completed in one day.

Neenah man faces burglary charges

NEENAH — An 18-year-old Neenah man was bound over to Circuit Court Wednesday on a burglary charge.

John Dedering, 709 E. Cecil St., waived a preliminary hearing when he appeared before Winnebago County Judge James Sitter, sitting here.

Police charged Dedering after a patrolman found him inside Hammen's Party Shop, 222 W. Wisconsin Ave., Aug. 20. No date was set fur further proceedings.

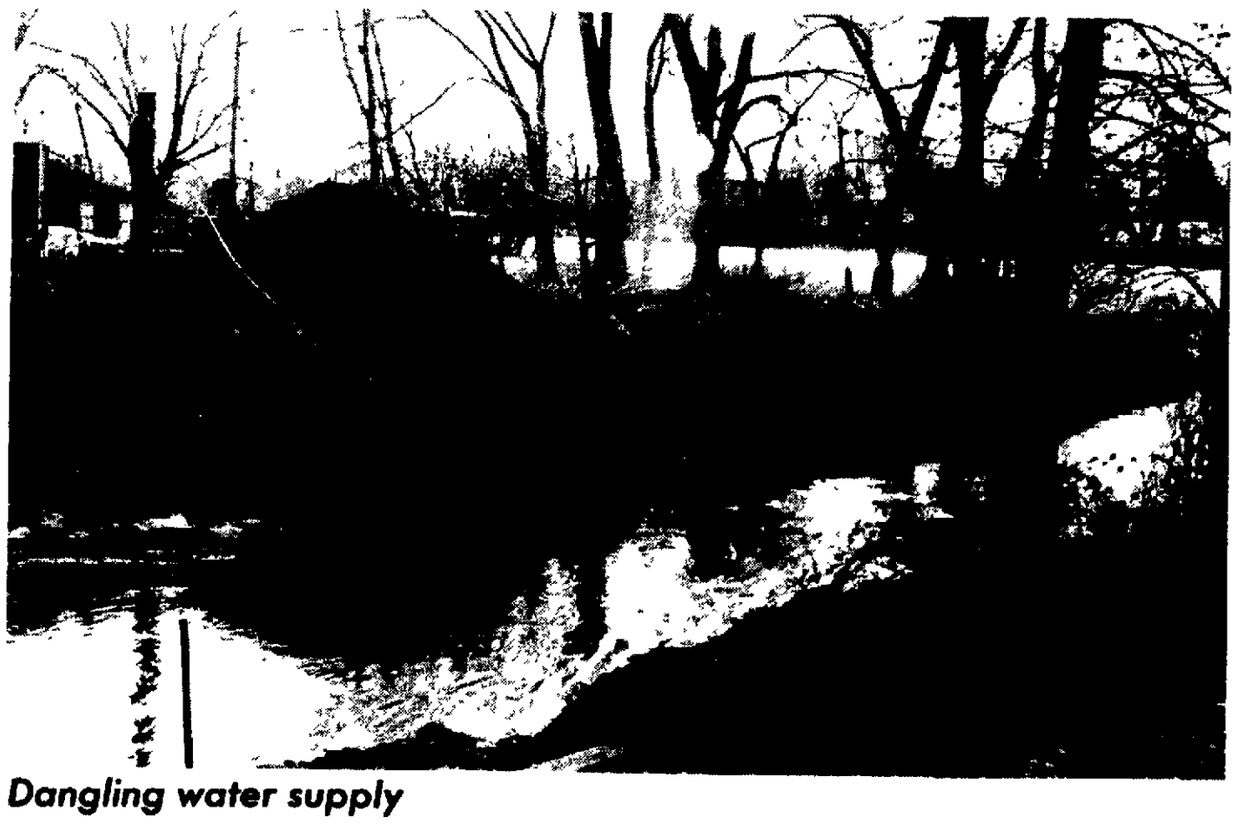

In an unrelated case, Sitter sentenced Patricia Welbes, 24, 1104 Highway 150, Neenah, to 30 days in the county jail, with Huber Law privileges. She was sentenced on an amended charge of driving without a valid license.

Police lodged an original count of driving after revocation on Sept. 14, in the 800 block of Main Street.

Dangling water supply

Copper tubing is draped between trees crossing a raceway near Whiting Paper Co. in Menasha to provide water to the two residences stranded on a peninsula. A new bridge is being constructed to replace the deteriorated wooden span which has been razed. And to keep the water flowing in freezing temperatures, the residents at the other end have to keep a tap open until the project is completed. (Post-Crescent photo)

UW system closings costly

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —Shutdown of any University of Wisconsin system campus would cost the community in which it is located more than $1 million a year, the UW administration said Friday.

The economic losses would "far outweigh any savings to the state," the report said.

The report was ordered by the Legislature as a guideline for possible budgetary cuts and in response to proposals for closing six of the UW's two-year center system campuses and possibly one four year campus.

The report noted the center system campus buildings were built by counties, often with borrowed funds. It said shutdowns would force the counties to continue paying for unused buildings with possible loss of federal subsidies used in construction.

"The closings would particularly result in a substantial raising of the economic barriers to higher education in some low income areas of the state where cost barriers now may be already too high," the UW said.

Students who commute to two year campuses in or near their home communities save the expense of dormitory or private housing living at larger schools, the report said.

It said some counties may have overbuilt center campus facilities with an eye toward meeting future needs. However, it said, development of facilities in the rest of the UW system has "generally lagged behind enrollment growth."

The Legislature had ordered the UW regents to report by Saturday on how campus buildings might be better used and "which campuses shall be closed."

'Increase support for UWFV'

An indication of the lack of visibility of the campus in the community, a call for increased support for the campus and a demand to keep the center "autonomous" from any four-year campus were heard in two hours of testimony Wednesday at a public hearing on the mission of the University of Wisconsin Center-Fox Valley.

The hearing, attended by over 50 people, was one of a series conducted by the regents at campuses throughout the state to determine public opinion of the recently-issued mission statements. Wednesday's testimony was mostly supportive of the campus role and called for increased support of the campus by the regents.

Mrs. Helen McCune, director of student services at the campus, and Veldor Kopitzke, chairman of the campus steering committee, called for the resources to fulfill the outlined mission.

Mrs. McCune noted the changing nature of the campus clientele. She said that in addition to the recent high school graduates beginning a four-year degree program, 30 per cent of the students are 25 years and older and a growing number are able high school students. She said the two-year campus could deliver personalized education with an emphasis on teaching excellence to these students.

Mrs. McCune called for aid from the regents to "watch-dog" the implementation and acceptance of the new associate degree programs throughout the UW system.

Outagamie County Supv. Al Lewandowski, representing the campus board of trustees, praised the center system and condemned talk of re-affiliating the campus with a four-year institution. He commended the campus for meeting individual student's needs and called for an end to the "financial disadvantage" imposed upon students who seek a four-year degree at a state campus, rather than vocational training.

Mayor James Sutherland of Appleton noted a "lack of community awareness of the significant role played by the center, and commended the regents for efforts to maintain and increase significance.

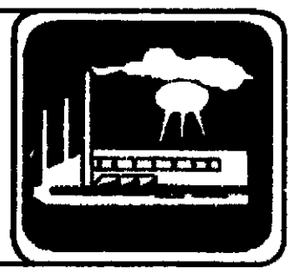

John Torinus, editor of The Post Crescent, said it was important for the campus to "continue as an independent unit of the Center system" so that programs meet the local community needs and students are assured of transferability to any campus.

Sherman Frinak, representing Appleton Papers President John Reeve, called for more clear definition of the names of the centers, their status and differences from technical schools and a simplification of the "academic" wording of the mission statement. He said too few people in the area have an idea of what the Center offers and that terminology and organizational changes have added to identity problems.

Alan Ostendorf, superintendent of the Menasha Public School System, said the campus has provided and should continue to provide sound educational opportunities. He called for increased efforts by faculty and administrators to make the campus more visible in the community and efforts by the UW system to support the campus financially in fulfilling its mission.

The hearing panel, chaired by Regent John Dixon, included Steven Benion, Albert Beaver and Judith Meritt, central administration academic planners. Two other regents were unable to attend.

Advent custom

A new church year for Christians begins Sunday, the first day of Advent. Placing the candles on the traditional wreath are the Rev. Vern Holtan, pastor of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, and his son, David. The season is filled with symbolism in anticipation of Christmas. Purple signifies penitence and prayer and stands for royalty. The evergreen wreath means eternal life, while the flame of the candles symbolizes Christ as the light of the world. # City could annex five 'town islands'

About 45 acres of land in five "town islands" could soon be annexed to Appleton under the terms of a bill signed into law this week by Gov. Patrick Lucey.

The parcels now belong to three towns — Grand Chute, Buchanan and Harrison. The largest is a tract of just over 20 acres on the southeast side of the city near Appleton High School-East, which is bisected by John Street. There are nearly a dozen homes and over 30 people on that land, according to planning and development director Jack Hetu.

The next largest tract is on the south side of the city on the west side of Kernan Avenue. It is now part of the Town of Harrison, and includes about 16.6 acres and three homes.

Two others —one vacant and the other including five homes — now lie in the town of Town of Grand Chute on the northeast side of the city. One is on the north side of Northland Avenue, between Meade Street and Ballard Avenue, and the other lies along the south side of Glendale Avenue, just east of Ballard.

The Glendale tract is vacant, according to Hetu, while the Northland tract includes five homes.

One other "island," lying just southeast of the larger John Street tract, includes one home and about one-third of an acre.

The exact descriptions of the five tracts had not been drawn up Friday, as City Atty. David Geenen was waiting for official publication of the new law before directing the engineering department to proceed with exact legal descriptions of the land.

Once that is done, the proposed annexations can go to the Welfare and Ordinance Committee and the City Council, where a two-thirds vote will be required for them to be annexed to the city.

Before passage of the new state law, a majority vote of the town citizens also had to give their consent to such annexations.

Assessed valuations of the town properties have not been compiled, although officials don't expect them to be great.

Geenen said action could be concluded on the annexations as early as the second City Council meeting in December, although he expected that it would not be done until the first meeting in January.

Numbers aid needy

Two telephone numbers for people in need of Christmas items and those willing to donate toys, food and clothing, have been announced by the Salvation Army, which is again serving as the clearinghouse for Christmas cheer.

The two numbers are: 731-1296 and 731-1297. They will be manned by volunteers of the Christ Child Society.

The numbers will be operative from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, through Dec. 14.

The annual program operated by the Salvation Army is providing what it terms "total Christmas care." By agreement, the clearinghouse maintains lists of needs and donors, so that no one in true need is left out.

As in the past, the organizations and private people who wish to donate items, are asked to use the numbers.

Committee recommends pay raise for coroner

By a 3-1 vote, the Outagamie County Board's Judiciary and Enforcement Committee Friday recommended approval of a pay raise sought by Coroner Bernard H. Kemps.

Kemps, in a letter to the committee, asked for a $32 per diem, the same as recently adopted for county board supervisors. Kemps said it has been traditional for the coroner to get the same per diem as supervisors.

Kemps now gets a flat $22. Supervisors get $22 for a full day's meeting and $15 for a half day. Their raise is effective next April. They will get $18 for half day sessions.

Kemps said that with the raise to $32, he would be willing to also start taking half-day, $18 pay.

The committee passed its recommendation on to the county board, with the stipulation that it not take effect until next April. The only dissenting vote came from Supv. R. Clayton Van Dyke of Kaukauna who said he didn't vote himself a pay raise either.

"If it was customary to keep the coroner's pay the same as the county board's in the past, it should be done now," said Supv. Emmett Root of rural Hortonville.

In other committee business:

— Sheriff Calvin L. Spice said that there were three applicants for the lieutenant post being vacated by Zuelzke. All three applicants presently work for the sheriff's department, he said. Tests will be given soon.

— The committee noted that drunk driving arrests by county police have increased significantly over a year ago.

— Spice said that departmental economy measures are resulting in squad car gasoline savings of 50 to 60 gallons a day. The committee noted that squad cars traveled 54,161 miles in October, 6,000 fewer than in October, 1972.

Kaukauna parking ban takes effect Dec. 1

KAUKAUNA — Police Chief William Nagel reminds residents that the city ordinance against parking on streets overnight takes effect today and officers will begin enforcing the ordinance immediately.

Overnight parking is prohibited throughout the winter months so as not to interfere with snowplowing and snow removal operations, said Nagel.

Wisconsin fuel oil supply is 'worse than expected'

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —A survey of Wisconsin heating fuel distributors found the state's fuel oil supplies in December might provide only 71 per cent of the heating fuel used in the state a year earlier, state energy coordinator Stanley York said Friday.

York said consumers who heat with fuel oil would have to reduce their normal thermostat settings by at least 6.5 degrees to make up for the shorter December supplies.

Reports to his office by fuel suppliers show stocks of fuel oil represent about 81 per cent of the amount used by Wisconsin fuel oil consumers in December, 1972, York said. He called the figures "worse than I expected."

He said between three and 10 per cent could be subtracted from the 81 per cent figure to account for fuel oil customers added since last year.

That means Wisconsin's December supplies could dip as low as 71 per cent of the fuel oil sold in the state a year ago.

"It's a problem. Not a disaster yet, but a problem," York said.

In the first of what he said would be monthly briefings on fuel supplies in Wisconsin, York said about 15 of the state's major fuel oil suppliers had reported their supplies and about 12 major companies had not.

Federal law requires that the suppliers make reports of their fuel stocks by the 25th of each month.

Those who have not, York said, have been reported to federal authorities.

Although the 81 per cent figure is based on reports from companies which make up only 30 per cent of last winter's oil sales in Wisconsin, the companies appear to represent a cross-section of all the state suppliers, York said.

Thus the 81 per cent appears to be close to accurate, he said.

York said the companies which submitted reports said their fuel oil supplies range from 101 per cent of last December's sales to about 50 per cent.

He said he has estimated that fuel supplies throughout the winter would average about 25 per cent below the amount which was sold in the state during winter months of 1972.

York said the firms who have not reported supplies represent about 70 per cent of the state's petroleum market. Penalties for not reporting include a maximum $5,000 fine per day if the firms are prosecuted under a criminal violation and up to $2,500 per day if the prosecution is for a civil violation.

Firms delinquent in reporting, he said, are Mobil Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Phillips 66 Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co., Naph-Sol, Northwestern Refining Co., Smith Oil, Triangle, Ashland, Bell, Farm Service and Erickson.

York said if a householder using heating oil "turns down his thermostat 6½ degrees, he's going to make it."

Sutter awarded $16,500

GREEN BAY —A Brown County Circuit Court jury ruled Friday that the Wrightstown School Board wrongfully terminated former School Supt. Robert Sutter's employment. It awarded Sutter $16,500 in damages.

The verdict, handed down before Judge Robert Parins in Circuit Court, Branch 2, terminated a dispute between the board and its former superintendent which began last spring when Sutter was informed his contract would not be renewed.

At this time, his employment was scheduled to end June 30, but he filed suit seeking an injunction to prevent the board from firing him. The injunction was denied in Brown County Court and Sutter left his job Oct. 5.

The educator then filed a $45,000 damage suit against the board, but his attorneys reduced the amount called for in the suit to $15,000 during a pre trial conference.

The jury's award included $15,000 damages for breach of contract and $1,500 in punitive damages.

Sutter served as Wrightstown school superintendent for seven years before his dismissal. He was replaced early this month by Harold Satterlund, a former Eleva-Strum School District administrator and administrative assistant with the Whitehall School District.

State patrol arrest powers broadened

MADISON, Wis. (AP) —A bill broadening arrest powers of the Wisconsin state patrol was signed into law Friday by Gov. Patrick Lucey.

"I am able to sign this bill without hesitation because it increases the effectiveness of the state patrol without altering in any way Wisconsin's commitment to law enforcement by local police departments and county sheriffs' offices," Lucey said.

Lucey said the new law would "enable the state patrol to efficiently respond to calls for assistance from citizens and other law enforcement agencies."

The law enables any state trooper in uniform and on duty to arrest persons he believes are in the process of committing a crime or have committed a crime within 24 hours before the arrest.

The primary mission of the patrol is enforcement of Wisconsin's traffic laws
